Nucleus Of College To Start Here Sunday

Bible School Dedication Is Booked

20 Students Signed By Mount Of Praise

Dedication ceremonies for Circleville's first institution of higher learning will be held at 2:30 p. m. Sunday in the Mount of Praise chapel for the initial class of 20 men and women enrolled for classes.

The institution will be known as the Mount of Praise Bible School—the nucleus of what will be a fully-accredited four-year college.

The Mount of Praise Bible School, located on East Ohio street, will open classes with three remodeled buildings—men and women's dormitories, chapel and class rooms.

The Rev. E. A. Keaton of Columbus, president of the school and chairman of the board of directors, declared the student body represents nearly every section of Ohio.

Student ages run from 18 to 23 and have registered past vocations as bookkeepers, clerks, bank tellers and shoe fitters. No local students were enrolled.

A LIMITED curriculum will be offered in this first year term, Rev. Mr. Keaton explained, but ministry, missionary work and music will be the main courses.

While the student body is limited this year, the end of the initial year of instruction will make the school eligible to accept GI benefit students.

Prerequisite for admittance to the Mount of Praise Bible School is a high school diploma and ability to meet entrance requirements the same as in any state or private college or university.

The teaching staff is made up of Prof. Kenneth Seifert of Evansville, Ind., and Miss Bertha Mercer, of Greenfield.

Bevin Tells Reds Keep On Their Side Of Wall

LONDON, Oct. 14 — British Foreign Secretary Bevin warned the Soviets today to "keep over on their side of the garden wall."

In an address to the National Union of Manufacturers, Bevin again branded the Russians as "expansionists."

He termed them the "last of the imperial races—as imperialist as the czar ever was."

The foreign secretary said that Britain has no desire to upset the Soviet system "but we must resist any attempt on their part to destroy our liberties." He continued:

"If we cannot fix an agreement with our neighbors at least let them keep over on their side of the garden wall. I am not the advocate of any interference. But equally, if they seek to disturb us, then they must not be annoyed if we are upset at their intervention and defend ourselves."

Referring to the Western Powers' action in referring the Berlin blockade to the UN Security Council, Bevin said:

"The aggressive attitude which had become more pronounced still went on and we had to arrest it in our own defense."

Jack Frost Visits Here

Charles Carter, Circleville's official weather observer, reported that first frost for Fall 1948 came Wednesday night.

Tagging it "light," Carter opined the visit of Jack Frost probably did more good than harm to exposed crops.

The U. S. weather bureau said it looked for another frost to cover the entire state Thursday night except along the shores of Lake Erie.

Fair Site Hit

COLUMBUS, Oct. 14—A taxpayer's suit was on file in Franklin County common pleas court today to halt the proposed purchase of land northwest of Columbus for a new state fairgrounds.

WHILE EVERETT MASTERS, Glendale, Cal., aircraft technician, tells a reporter of his "proxy marriage," the newsman studies a photo of the "proxy bride," Wilhelmina Johanna, a Hollander who is held by immigration officials at Ellis Island, N. Y. Married last July "by proxy," the bride sailed to the U. S., but the officials do not recognize such unions. So Masters will have to marry her once again before Uncle Sam will open the door of America to Wilhelmina.

'CLUMSY MANEUVERS' HIT

Rightist Appears Winner Of Jap Premiership Race

TOKYO, Oct. 14—Former Premier Shigeru Yoshida was virtually assured tonight of election as Japan's new prime minister at the head of a Rightist cabinet.

A rift within the Democratic (conservative) Party opened the prospect that Yoshida would win the premiership by a narrow plurality in the diet (parliament).

The rift developed when Hitoshi Ashida, who resigned the premiership with his coalition cabinet last week, failed in an effort to draft Takeshi Yamazaki for the job of organizing a new government.

The attempt boomeranged when Yamazaki, secretary-general of the Democratic-Liberal (rightist) Party which is headed by Yoshida, resigned his seat in the diet.

THIS MEANT that Yamazaki no longer was eligible for the premiership. It left Yoshida as the only remaining Democratic-Liberal nominee for the post.

Ashida, head of the Democratic Party, had obtained from his political bloc within the diet a vote of support for Yamazaki as against Yoshida.

This move, instead of eliminating Yoshida from the running as intended, turned out as a factor strengthening the Rightist leader's chances when Yamazaki resigned from the diet.

It therefore split the Democratic Party. The party's secretary general, Gizo Tomabechi, and assistant secretary general, Shigeru Hori, bolted from Ashida's political organization.

Tomabechi and Hori announced they were leaving the Democrat fold because Ashida's "clumsy maneuvers"—as they termed them—had hurt the party's prestige.

Only 12 Ships Remain After Bikini A-Tests

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14—The Navy emphasized the horror of atomic war today by announcing that only 12 ships bombed at Bikini are still afloat, and three of these remain radioactive after two years.

Seventy-six surplus vessels were anchored in Bikini atoll for the underwater atomic bomb test July 25, 1946. Of the 12 afloat, nine have been decontaminated, two remain to be sunk, and one is used as a radiological defense laboratory.

The two radioactive ships remaining to be sunk are the Heavy Cruiser Pensacola, scheduled for destruction Nov. 10, and the Destroyer Hughes, now berthed at Bremerton, Wash.

Nine of the 64 vessels destroyed as a result of the underwater atom test were sunk at the time, or capsized and subsequently sunk on the scene. These include the Carrier Saratoga, the Battleship Arkansas and the Jap Battleship Nagato.

Of the entire total, only ten could be salvaged for useful purposes, and of these, the Carrier Independence, remains contaminated and is useful only as a laboratory.

Soviets 'Never' To Lift Blockade

BERLIN, Oct. 14—The Soviet-controlled Berlin Press said flatly today that the Russian blockade would never be lifted as a pre-condition to a Big Four German conference.

Taegliche Rundschau, organ of the Red Army, also hinted broadly that the Soviet sector of Berlin soon may be incorporated into Russian-occupied Germany.

Democrats Take Strong Lead In Alaskan Voting

JUNEAU, Oct. 14—Democrats held mounting leads—nearing landslide proportions in some cases—as Alaska counted votes today from Tuesday's election.

Territorial Delegate E. L. Bartlett, a Democrat, held a lead of three to one over R. H. Stock, Anchorage Republican, on the basis of returns from 62 of the territory's 200 precincts. Returns, mainly from Southeastern Alaska, gave Bartlett 10,102 and Stock 2,915.

The territorial delegate has no vote in Congress. Jubilant Democrats began forecasting that "as Alaska goes, so goes the nation." Alaskans do not vote for President.

Democrats seemed assured of winning back control of the territorial legislature, which they lost in 1946 to the Republicans. Democratic candidates lead in 18 districts and Republicans in six for seats in the lower house, whereas Democrats are ahead in five out of eight for the territorial senate.

Advocates of a measure to outlaw fish traps were rolling up an eight to one lead over opponents —11,944 to 1,496.

Final returns are not expected for at least two weeks because of the isolation of many precincts.

Truman And Dewey Now Warming Up

New Yorker Said 'Me, Too' Boy; GOPster Promises Big Cleanup

MANKATO, Minn., Oct. 14—President Truman charged today that Gov. Thomas E. Dewey and the Republican leadership have tried to "wear the mantle" of the late President Roosevelt "to further their own selfish political ambitions."

The President, addressing a crowd of several thousands in this Southern Minnesota town, declared: "I've smoked them out. They can't get away with it."

He repeated his accusation, voiced in St. Paul last night, that his Republican presidential opponent is only "a recent convert" to the foreign policy principles of the Democratic Party and is now saying, "me, too."

Mr. Truman said that Republican Sen. Joseph H. Ball of Minnesota is "a former liberal who was converted to reaction."

The President, continuing his campaign through the Upper Great Lakes States, has six other speeches scheduled today, winding up late tonight in Milwaukee, Wis.

IN HIS Minnesota addresses, he is calling for defeat of Ball, the state's senior senator, and election of Ball's Democratic opponent, Minneapolis Mayor Hubert Humphrey.

The President declared that Dewey consistently opposed the Roosevelt war policies, demanded immediate demobilization of the armed forces when the shooting stopped and showed "little foresight about postwar problems."

Throughout the 1944 campaign, Mr. Truman said, Dewey kept repeating:

"Me, too, but I can do it better."

The President asserted that Dewey had "copied the answers down neatly after the teacher (FDR) had written them on the blackboard."

Down in Missouri, Dewey got up with the sun in President Truman's home state with a promise to "house clean" Washington.

The Republican presidential nominee is slated to pound home that theme tonight in Kansas City.

Dewey pledged himself to the "biggest, toughest house cleaning" Washington has ever seen as his campaign special entered Missouri after a full day in Oklahoma.

And he again promised that his administration will not "wobble and weave and wiggle" in foreign affairs.

America Getting Return On ECA

NEW YORK, Oct. 14—A thousand tons of rubber, America's first consignment of strategic war material to be received in return for the Marshall Plan, is being unloaded here today.

The shipment, first of 25,000 tons, arrived yesterday aboard the British freighter, the SS Parthia.

British Information Service said the transaction is the first under terms of the Economic Cooperation Agreement between the United States and Britain.

'DOLLARS, GUNS NO GOOD'

Ex-WPB Aide Says U.S. Fails Teach Democracy

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14 — A former War Production Board official warned today that America must use the "irresistible weapon of Democracy" in its fight against Communism instead of "words, dollars and guns."

Bruce Catton, information director for the old WPB, says the U. S. now finds itself "the strongest and most nervous nation on earth" because it failed to fight an all-out effort and invigorate Democracy in World War II.

The view of the one-time close associate of WPB Chairman Donald M. Nelson, during the years from Pearl Harbor to VE-Day, are set forth in a new book dealing with the events of that era—"The War Lords of Washington."

Translating the lessons of the war years into their present day meanings, Catton writes:

"America did the most colossal job in history and came out of it (the war) with an inferiority complex and a deep sense of fear. We won an overwhelming victory and we have not the least notion what to do with it.

West Wants Reds In Berlin Debate

PARIS, Oct. 14—Israel conceded today its official share of blame for the assassination of Count Folke Bernadotte, but declared that it is striving to apprehend the slayers.

Israeli Spokesman Maj. Aubrey Eban told the UN Security Council that the slaying is a "hideous crime," and added that it is obvious "the responsibility is not only upon the hands of the assassins."

He spoke after Acting Mediator Ralph J. Bunche of America told the council that Israel's failure to protect Bernadotte made it responsible for the murder.

Eban recalled that the Jewish state had moved immediately to smash terrorism by outlawing the Irgun Zvai Leumi and imprisoning members of the Stern Gang.

TEL AVIV dispatches said that the Israeli government has arrested 76 military police who failed to prevent the recent Stern Gang jailbreak at Jaffa.

Responding to a joint British-Chinese demand for a report on the progress of efforts to nab the assassins and for Security Council actions to halt violations of the truce, Eban pleaded with the council for a formal peace declaration.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14 — Secret testimony that two Communist underground organizations operated within the State Department before the war was disclosed today by the House Un-American Activities Committee.

This information was given at a closed meeting of a subcommittee on Aug. 27 by Whittaker Chambers, self-styled former spy courier and now an editor of Time Magazine.

Chambers testified that one of the organizations was headed by Alger Hiss, who already has denied the charges in a face-to-face meeting with Chambers before the committee, and the other by Noel Field, former head of the department's Western European division.

The committee record said the witness was asked whether it was the purpose of the organization to "infiltrate" the department and "develop contacts" with key personnel. He replied:

Strange Concoctions

Oh, ho!! So you thought all this talk about Pumpkinjack was just a batch of malarkey, a pipe-dream conjured up in the twilight world of the addled by some dull-eyed character who would make with the jokes. If you were among the misguided souls who thought it was just a publicity gag, then be sure to be at next week's 42nd annual Circleville Pumpkin Show. And you can have all the Pumpkinjack your little tummy can hold. It will be available—in a booth maintained by Circleville Booster Club.

And directly across the street—Pumpkin Soup. Ah, yes, another rare delicacy found only at Pickaway County's over-grown Fall festival. This pumpkin byproduct will be prepared and served by Circleville Kiwanis Club which, like the Boosters, takes pride in presenting the unbelievable . . . yet tasty. The Kiwanians report that their Pumpkin Soup recipe is imported directly from the kitchens of the better French chefs who have long since considered the puree one of the finest delicacies developed by Parisian connoisseurs. Following are reports on both Pumpkinjack and Pumpkin Soup.

Pumpkinjack To Be Offered By Boosters

"It is absolutely not true that the stuff ate away a large section of my wife's kitchen sink!!"

This vehement declaration came Thursday from Dr. Walter F. Heine, Circleville physician, pseude-chemist, Booster Club sparkplug and perfecter of Pumpkinjack.

The good doctor, who has been tinkering with mortar and pestle for the last fortnight, claimed that "Pumpkinjack is as close to elixir of the gods that mortal man will ever develop." At least those were the words placed in the Heine mouth by the Booster Club press agent Thursday.

The report came after a meeting of the club's high command in the Heine kitchen. It seems that Dr. Heine had been delegated by the club to concoct Pumpkinjack so that the local chamber-of-commerce- without-portfolio might offer same to the crowds that will swarm this us-

Wooden Nickels Being Readied

Circleville's Kippy Kit Co. Thursday was littered with chips and shavings as the firm got into the heart of its order to turn out wooden nickels for the coming Pumpkin Show.

Larry Goeller, head of the local novelty manufacturing concern, promised he would have the local Kiwanis Club order for 7,500 of the jitneys ready well in advance of next Wednesday's opening day.

WCTU Decries Drunk Increase

EVANSTON, Ill., Oct. 14—The Woman's Christian Temperance Union expressed concern today over what it termed a 45 percent increase in arrests for drunkenness — including drunken driving—in the nation during the last five years.

Mrs. D. Leigh Colvin, national WCTU president, explained that "the steady increase in drunkenness is due to unprecedented drink promotion."

Pumpkin Soup Is New Here, Old In France

Brought in direct from France is Pumpkin Soup and it fits in perfectly with next week's celebration in Circleville—the 42nd annual Pumpkin Show.

The idea, received with a certain amount of skepticism though the area has been boosting pumpkins for nearly a half-century, is a common dish among Parisians.

Suggesting the idea to Pumpkin Show officials was a pair of young women, natives of France. Now the wives of American exservicemen, they offered to help introduce the Pumpkin Soup to the expected 200,000 persons here next week.

The were Mrs. Howard Glitt and Mrs. Robert Swift, both of whom already have served the delicacy to their husbands. Re-

Brewster Says British Ahead In Plane Output

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14—Sen. Brewster, (R) Maine, declared today that the British aircraft industry is outstripping the U. S. so far that it is counting on selling planes to American air lines.

The senator said he was told on a visit to the plant near London that its maintenance cost will be only 10 percent of U. S. plane costs.

Brewster, advocate of a single-flag American line to compete on world routes said he expects to confer with Gov. Thomas Dewey, if he wins the presidency. Before he decides whether to reintroduce his unified-line measure.

Decapitated Body Puzzles Police

MARTINS FERRY, Oct. 14—Belmont County authorities sought today to establish the identity of a man whose decapitated body was found by a mushroom hunter south of the river town of Shadyside.

The discovery was made late yesterday by Andy Senek of Glendale, W. Va.

The victim's head was found beside the body with a .45 calibre bullet hole through the skull. The left hand and right arm were severed and missing. The body had been exposed about two weeks.

Strange Concoctions

Oh, ho!! So you thought all this talk about Pumpkinjack was just a batch of malarkey, a pipe-dream conjured up in the twilight world of the addled by some dull-eyed character who would make with the jokes. If you were among the misguided souls who thought it was just a publicity gag, then be sure to be at next week's 42nd annual Circleville Pumpkin Show. And you can have all the Pumpkinjack your little tummy can hold. It will be available—in a booth maintained by Circleville Booster Club.

And directly across the street—Pumpkin Soup. Ah, yes, another rare delicacy found only at Pickaway County's over-grown Fall festival. This pumpkin byproduct will be prepared and served by Circleville Kiwanis Club which, like the Boosters, takes pride in presenting the unbelievable . . . yet tasty. The Kiwanians report that their Pumpkin Soup recipe is imported directly from the kitchens of the better French chefs who have long since considered the puree one of the finest delicacies developed by Parisian connoisseurs. Following are reports on both Pumpkinjack and Pumpkin Soup.

Pumpkinjack To Be Offered By Boosters

"It is absolutely not true that the stuff ate away a large section of my wife's kitchen sink!!"

This vehement declaration came Thursday from Dr. Walter F. Heine, Circleville physician, pseude-chemist, Booster Club sparkplug and perfecter of Pumpkinjack.

The good doctor, who has been tinkering with mortar and pestle for the last fortnight, claimed that "Pumpkinjack is as close to elixir of the gods that mortal man will ever develop." At least those were the words placed in the Heine mouth by the Booster Club press agent Thursday.

The report came after a meeting of the club's high command in the Heine kitchen. It seems that Dr. Heine had been delegated by the club to concoct Pumpkinjack so that the local chamber-of-commerce- without-portfolio might offer same to the crowds that will swarm this us-

Wooden Nickels Being Readied

Circleville's Kippy Kit Co. Thursday was littered with chips and shavings as the firm got into the heart of its order to turn out wooden nickels for the coming Pumpkin Show.

Larry Goeller, head of the local novelty manufacturing concern, promised he would have the local Kiwanis Club order for 7,500 of the jitneys ready well in advance of next Wednesday's opening day.

WCTU Decries Drunk Increase

EVANSTON, Ill., Oct. 14—The Woman's Christian Temperance Union expressed concern today over what it termed a 45 percent increase in arrests for drunkenness — including drunken driving—in the nation during the last five years.

Mrs. D. Leigh Colvin, national WCTU president, explained that "the steady increase in drunkenness is due to unprecedented drink promotion."

Pumpkin Soup Is New Here, Old In France

Brought in direct from France is Pumpkin Soup and it fits in perfectly with next week's celebration in Circleville—the 42nd annual Pumpkin Show.

The idea, received with a certain amount of skepticism though the area has been boosting pumpkins for nearly a half-century, is a common dish among Parisians.

Suggesting the idea to Pumpkin Show officials was a pair of young women, natives of France. Now the wives of American ex-servicemen, they offered to help introduce the Pumpkin Soup to the expected 200,000 persons here next week.

The were Mrs. Howard Glitt and Mrs. Robert Swift, both of whom already have served the delicacy to their husbands. Re-

Brewster Says British Ahead In Plane Output

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14—Sen. Brewster, (R) Maine, declared today that the British aircraft industry is outstripping the U. S. so far that it is counting on selling planes to American air lines.

Brewster said Vickers is perfecting a turbo-jet credited with a range of 1,800 miles at 300 miles an hour with a pay load of 40 passengers.

The senator said he was told on a visit to the plant near London that its maintenance cost will be only 10 percent of U. S. plane costs.

Brewster, advocate of a single-flag American line to compete on world routes said he expects to confer with Gov. Thomas Dewey, if he wins the presidency. Before he decides whether to reintroduce his unified-line measure.

He will also discuss his "prototype" bill—the Senate's "unfinished business" throughout the special session—with the admin-

Acting Council Chairman Juan A. Bramuglia of Argentina is understood planning to strive for clarification by both the Western Powers and Russia when the council renews consideration of the blockade tomorrow.

Should Russia comply with such a request it will mean a reversal of the previous Soviet stand not to participate in any United Nations discussion of the Berlin issue.

There were indications also that Bramuglia is displeased by what he apparently feels is Western Power coolness to his previous mediation attempts.

BRAMUGLIA reportedly takes the position that the attitude of the Westerners provoked the flat Russian rejection of his plan for a simultaneous plan for lifting the blockade and convoking a Big Four council of foreign ministers session on all of Germany.

America, Britain and France moved ahead meanwhile with plans to have the UN call upon Russia formally to lift the blockade and cease endangering world peace.

Delegates of the Western Powers conferred for more than an hour this morning and plan to meet again tonight.

A Western spokesman said, however, that he did not anticipate that an actual draft resolution will be presented then to the council.

This source said he believed the session would be devoted principally to individual statements, after which the council would adjourn until Monday.

Delegates of the six neutrals conferred among themselves as did the representatives of the West.

Bramuglia saw all three Western delegates separately.

He explained to Dr. Philip Jessup of America, Britain's Sir Alexander Cadogan, and Alexandre Parodi of France the standpat Soviet views given to him yesterday by Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky.

Vishinsky reiterated that Russia can not recognize the competence of the Security Council to discuss the blockade and that any talks on the siege must be on a four-power basis outside the UN.

The Big Three advised Bramuglia that the Russian reply to the Argentine's representations changed nothing and that no further negotiations can be considered until after the blockade is lifted.

FIRST outside-the-family person to get the inside information on Pumpkin Soup was The Circleville Herald's Antiquated Reporter. His column, Round Circleville Hour by Hour, today carries a notation on Pumpkin Soup along with Mrs. Glitt's recipe.

About the second to hear of the preparation was an official of Circleville Kiwanis Club. He immediately turned the idea over to the club's booth committee and plans were made to offer Pumpkin Soup to Circleville visitors next week.

Frank Wantz, chairman of the Kiwanis booth committee, said his group would follow the instruction given by Mrs. Glitt and Mrs. Swift and that the soup would be available for the skeptical as well as food connoisseurs who are adventurous.

Actress-Author In Hospital

KINGSTON, N. Y., Oct. 14.—Actress-Author Elissa Landi was reported in "poor condition" in Kingston hospital early today from what her physician said was a "serious ailment."

The 44-year-old stage and screen beauty entered the hospital Sunday when her condition "flared up."

She has been bothered with the malady several months, her physician, Dr. Kenneth Le Sever, said. He did not identify the ailment.

Truman Hits Dewey Again

Dewey delivered a dozen speeches in the Sooner State, bringing out mass crowds in Tulsa and Oklahoma City, where he warned of the need for a "strong America" in the present world crisis.

Tonight's Kansas City address was pitched against the background of a city famous in the past for its machine politics and its recent "clean-up" drive.

How far the GOP candidate would go toward linking President Truman with the Kansas City record from the days of his early political sponsor, the late Tom Pendergast, his aides refused to say.

GOP leaders of the 80th Congress launched an investigation of the 1946 primary in the fifth congressional district of Missouri. The inquiry was based upon a senatorial charge that Attorney General Tom C. Clark had failed to investigate properly and prosecute alleged vote frauds in Kansas City.

Volume, Price Swing Upward In Stock Sale

Both volume and prices in the Wednesday Pickaway Lovestock Cooperative auctions took an upward trend, rising from a marked slump registered last week.

Last week's report showed only 940 head were sold with prices dropping in each category of sales. Largest drop last week was in the sale of packing sows, which sold for a four to five-cent per pound decrease.

This week's market volume reached 1,104 head, an increase over last weeks transactions of 164 head.

Prices in all but two categories in the Wednesday auctions showed a fairly substantial increase, while the two categories which failed to rise remained near last week's prices. They were sale of bulls and ewes.

Volume of cattle sold this week increased 47 head when 179 head were auctioned compared to 132 sold last week.

Largest increase in the market was seen in sale of hogs, Wednesday as 600 were marketed compared to 400 sold last Wednesday.

Calf receipts decreased 25 head this week when only 57 were sold compared to 82 marketed last Wednesday, and sheep and lambs receipts decreased 58 head when only 268 were sold compared to last week's sale of 326.

A complete report of Wednesday's market follows:

CATTLE RECEIPTS — 179 head — Steers and heifers, good No choice cattle on sale; steers and heifers, medium to good 26-30.20; steers and heifers, common to medium 16-26; cows, common to good 17-20; cows, canners to common 12-17; bulls 13.90-24.50.

Rare Element Is Seen Boon To Atom Energy

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14 — The Atomic Energy Commission said today that the element thorium holds a potential new source of energy for the atomic bomb but its development may take 10 or 20 years.

Currently the A-bomb is produced from uranium.

The AEC said that it is maintaining strict export controls on thorium-bearing materials and a record of their domestic movement, but the government's present use of the element is limited to research.

A statement was issued by the commission on thorium in response to inquiries concerning monazite, the principal ore from which the element is obtained.

Many industries are interested in monazite ore since it is the only commercial source of the element cerium and other rare and essential materials.

The AEC said it now is purchasing only thorium for experimental purposes, chiefly in the form of thorium salts and has no purchase program for monazite ore as such. The commission's statement explained:

"When the research problems are solved, thorium may become of great significance in the atomic energy program. Until these problems have been solved, however, thorium will not be in large demand for use in nuclear reactors."

racy which lies ready to our hands. Instead we are relying on words, dollars, and guns, and none of them will turn the trick for us."

Catton says the nation "retreated during the war" from giving Democracy new meaning and vitality "because of the fear of change that kept our war from being a people's war."

The former WPB aide says the nation's World War II defense chiefs were honest, patriotic businessmen but they fought the war for limited military objectives and preservation of the economic status quo. Catton writes:

"The full energies of the small business system were not expanded. Labor was not moved up to partnership with ownership in the great war industries. The dollar-a-year system was not replaced.

"The base for closely knit control of the American economy was not shifted by a new system to handle patent rights and to direct wartime scientific and technological research into new channels.

"Adequate preparation for reconversion was not made and through it all, the people were not trusted with the facts."

Legion Installs New Commander During Program

Edward C. Ebert was officially installed as commander of Circleville American Legion Howard Hall Post 139 in Memorial Hall Wednesday night.

Ebert was elected into the top Legion position last month. He has been prominent in Legion work for two decades and is a past commander. He replaced John Bolender.

Installed into office along with the new commander were Robert Shadley, adjutant; Robert Liston, first vice-commander; and Harold Hill, second vice-commander; Robert Moon, finance officer.

Blanche Motschman, first woman member of the post to hold office, was installed as chaplain, Fred Boggs and Kirk Cupp took over as members of the executive committee and Grover Dresbach and Leonard Coffland became sergeants-at-arms.

Ebert's first official act was to name James P. Shea service officer and to appoint Shea and Coffland as athletic advisers.

Paper Chain Opens Support For Dewey

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14—The Scripps-Howard newspapers today endorsed the presidential candidacy of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey.

An editorial said that the GOP standard-bearer is "much better able" than President Truman to prevent a "backward march" to "isolationism and domestic reaction."

The Scripps-Howard newspapers, of which the Columbus Citizen is one, gave Mr. Truman "full credit" for doing his best "under extraordinary difficulties," but added:

"Mr. Truman's best—and we say it with regret—seems to us not good enough for the next four years. . .He inherited leadership of a party whose top men had grown flabby after three terms of coat-tail riding.

"Under Mr. Truman, the Democartic party fell apart. Today it is hopelessly disorganized."

The editorial accused the president of "sowing seeds of dangerous disunity" in his campaign and called his "blunder" in the proposed Vinson mission to Moscow "the most serious threat" to America's bi-partisan foreign policy.

The witness said such discussions had taken place and that Hiss believed that Field was a promising recruit, according to the committee report made public today.

He said Hiss "made a number of attempts" to draw Field into the organization only to discover at the last minute that Field was head of "another underground apparatus" within the department.

This additional testimony by Chambers came to light as it became apparent that government prosecutors regard current evidence as too slim to prosecute either Chambers of Hiss for perjury.

Their conflicting testimony will be reviewed, however, at a conference between U. S. Attorney George Morris Fay and John Beacher, special assistant to Attorney General Tom Clark.

ually-sane city during the next week's Pumpkin Show.

BOOSTERS present for the testing were each handed a sample. They sipped. Lips smacked. Second round coming up. Lips again pursed, eyebrows raised, heads nodded in agreement. This was a bit of OK.

Dr. Heine wagged a fatherly finger, cautioned his fellow Boosters not to mark themselves down as the first to taste this great discovery. For they were not.

For less commercially-minded lips had touched the cup of Pumpkinjack first. There was the man from the federal government who represented the bureau of internal revenue—the revenooer.

He had sampled, found no alcohol, had given his blessing to Pumpkinjack as a legal beverage.

Then there was another federal man—a strict disciplinarian who flashes his little badge while enforcing laws pertaining to pure foods and drugs. He, too, had placed a stamp of approval on Pumpkinjack.

All in all, the stuff was ready for public consumption. It was non-alcoholic; it was pure as Pumpkinjack could get and it would be quite a novelty at the Pumpkin Show.

That was Dr. Heine's report. He suggested the meeting adjourn, but the Boosters lingered, eyes on the doctor's big vat of brew—we mean, elixir. But the doctor gave a firm "no" and told his colleagues they, like John Q. Public, must wait until next week.

istration before he submits new legislation, he said.

BREWSTER said that he is confident that if Dewey is elected the administration will take further steps toward carrying out the recommendations of the congressional air policy committee, of which Brewster is chairman.

He said that his prototype bill, if it had been enacted, would have made it possible for the government to go into the same commercial turbo-jet projects which England is conducting, and which are being developed in the United States only for military use.

Brewster declared that with U. S. airlines competing with one another abroad, as well as with foreign lines, "we are nearing a showdown." He said:

"Despite heavy traffic, our lines overseas have been operating at a loss."

Brewster said he sees hope the consolidation of U. S. overseas lines may be effected by the administration even without legislation. He pointed out that the administration "has two weapons—mail subsidies and the fact that most of the seven-year overseas route grants expire in two years."

DEATHS and Funerals

JOHN STOVER

Funeral services are being arranged for John Albert Stover, 30, of Harrison Township who died on Luzon in the Phillippines while serving as a private in Company F, 158th Infantry.

The Rev. A. B. Albertson will officiate at 2 p. m. Saturday in Ashville Methodist church. Burial, under direction of the E. F. Schlegel funeral home, will be made in Forest cemetery.

Born in Point Pleasant, W. Va., Oct. 13, 1918, he was a son of Ezra V. and Lucy Burnside Stover.

In addition to the parents, he is survived by his widow, Gladys Swank Stover; three children, John Albert Jr., Stephen, and Dixie Lee, the latter of whom the deceased never saw; four brothers, Rufus, Roy, Ray and Ernest Stover of Harrison Township; and a sister, Mrs. Wilma White of Circleville.

Friends may call in the residence on Route 23, located in the northern part of Harrison Township until time of the services.

VanCamp Is Lone Bidder For Road Repair Contract

Pickaway County commissioners Wednesday awarded a $31,837.40 county road contract to Contractor George W. Van Camp for improvement of 31.34 miles on seven highways.

Bids on the project were first opened June 10, but a lack of money in the county engineer's fund forced postponement until new fee distributions were made. Van Camp's bid was the only one received by the county commissioners, Auditor Fred Tipton said. Following is a list of roads scheduled for improvement.

All studies will be conducted on a four-year basis.

Present schedule calls for all morning classes. Students will be available to local businessmen for parttime jobs. Rev. Mr. Keaton explained that a few of the students will be studying here on a work and pay basis.

Graduation at the end of the four-year course will lead up to an AB degree, the school explained. For those preparing to enter a seminary, these classes will provide the groundwork.

The Mount of Praise Bible School is the only one of its kind in the state operated by the Church of Christ in Christian Union. Classes are open to any student able to qualify regardless of sect.

AS FOR the future of the school, Rev. Keaton spoke wistfully of Ohio State university's beginning 75 years ago with some 75 students.

Already in the blueprint stage is a large brick administration building to be located on the East Ohio street entrance to the grounds.

Plans also are underway for students to work on the church farm located east of Circleville on Route 22. Rev. Mr. Keaton said once this plan is in operation much of the school's foodstuffs will be grown there while the student is helping himself through school.

Other members of the board of trustees beside Rev. Mr. Keaton are the Rev. Arthur George of Washington C. H., the Rev. S. G. Wllams of Urbana, Rev. S. G. Williams of Urbana, Springfield and the Rev. W. L. Cozad of Evansville, Ind.

Agents Plan Attending Meet

Larry Best, Pickaway County agricultural agent, and Miss Genevieve Alley, home demonstration agent, are to attend the annual business meeting of Ohio county agents at Ohio State university Thursday evening.

Aim of the annual function is to use comparisons as a means of bettering future agricultural projects in the state while working with material prepared by the extension service of the university.

Delegates of the six neutrals conferred among themselves as did the representatives of the West.

Bramuglia saw all three Western delegates separately.

He explained to Dr. Philip Jessup of America, Britain's Sir Alexander Cadogan, and Alexandre Parodi of France the standpat Soviet views given to him yesterday by Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky.

Vishinsky reiterated that Russia can not recognize the competence of the Security Council to discuss the blockade and that any talks on the siege must be on a four-power basis outside the UN.

The Big Three advised Bramuglia that the Russian reply to the Argentine's representations changed nothing and that no further negotiations can be considered until after the blockade is lifted.

ports from both men have been favorable.

FIRST outside-the-family person to get the inside information on Pumpkin Soup was The Circleville Herald's Antiquated Reporter. His column, Round Circleville Hour by Hour, today carries a notation on Pumpkin Soup along with Mrs. Glitt's recipe.

About the second to hear of the preparation was an official of Circleville Kiwanis Club. He immediately turned the idea over to the club's booth committee and plans were made to offer Pumpkin Soup to Circleville visitors next week.

Frank Wantz, chairman of the Kiwanis booth committee, said his group would follow the instruction given by Mrs. Glitt and Mrs. Swift and that the soup would be available for the skeptical as well as food connoisseurs who are adventurous.

Actress-Author In Hospital

KINGSTON, N. Y., Oct. 14.—Actress-Author Elissa Landi was reported in "poor condition" in Kingston hospital early today from what her physician said was a "serious ailment."

The 44-year-old stage and screen beauty entered the hospital Sunday when her condition "flared up."

She has been bothered with the malady several months, her physician, Dr. Kenneth Le Sever, said. He did not identify the ailment.

dents turned out to hear Dewey.

Dewey delivered a dozen speeches in the Sooner State, bringing out mass crowds in Tulsa and Oklahoma City, where he warned of the need for a "strong America" in the present world crisis.

Tonight's Kansas City address was pitched against the background of a city famous in the past for its machine politics and its recent "clean-up" drive.

How far the GOP candidate would go toward linking President Truman with the Kansas City record from the days of his early political sponsor, the late Tom Pendergast, his aides refused to say.

GOP leaders of the 80th Congress launched an investigation of the 1946 primary in the fifth congressional district of Missouri. The inquiry was based upon a senatorial charge that Attorney General Tom C. Clark had failed to investigate properly and prosecute alleged vote frauds in Kansas City.

Volume, Price Swing Upward In Stock Sale

Both volume and prices in the Wednesday Pickaway Lovestock Cooperative auctions took an upward trend, rising from a marked slump registered last week.

Last week's report showed only 940 head were sold with prices dropping in each category of sales. Largest drop last week was in the sale of packing sows, which sold for a four to five-cent per pound decrease.

This week's market volume reached 1,104 head, an increase over last weeks transactions of 164 head.

Prices in all but two categories in the Wednesday auctions showed a fairly substantial increase, while the two categories which failed to rise remained near last week's prices. They were sale of bulls and ewes.

Volume of cattle sold this week increased 47 head when 179 head were auctioned compared to 132 sold last week.

Largest increase in the market was seen in sale of hogs, Wednesday as 600 were marketed compared to 400 sold last Wednesday.

Calf receipts decreased 25 head this week when only 57 were sold compared to 82 marketed last Wednesday, and sheep and lambs receipts decreased 58 head when only 268 were sold compared to last week's sale of 326.

A complete report of Wednesday's market follows:

CATTLE RECEIPTS — 179 head — Steers and heifers, good No choice cattle on sale; steers and heifers, medium to good 26-30.20; steers and heifers, common to medium 16-26; cows, common to good 17-20; cows, canners to common 12-17; bulls 13.50-24.50.

Rare Element Is Seen Boon To Atom Energy

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14 — The Atomic Energy Commission said today that the element thorium holds a potential new source of energy for the atomic bomb but its development may take 10 or 20 years.

Currently the A-bomb is produced from uranium.

The AEC said that it is maintaining strict export controls on thorium-bearing materials and a record of their domestic movement, but the government's present use of the element is limited to research.

A statement was issued by the commission on thorium in response to inquiries concerning monazite, the principal ore from which the element is obtained.

Many industries are interested in monazite ore since it is the only commercial source of the element cerium and other rare and essential materials.

The AEC said it now is purchasing only thorium for experimental purposes, chiefly in the form of thorium salts and has no purchase program for monazite ore as such. The commission's statement explained:

"When the research problems are solved, thorium may become of great significance in the atomic energy program. Until these problems have been solved, however, thorium will not be in large demand for use in nuclear reactors."

Ex-WPB Aide Says U.S. Fails Teach Democracy

Catton says the nation "retreated during the war" from giving Democracy new meaning and vitality "because of the fear of change that kept our war from being a people's war."

The former WPB aide says the nation's World War II defense chiefs were honest, patriotic businessmen but they fought the war for limited military objectives and preservation of the economic status quo. Catton writes:

"The full energies of the small business system were not expanded. Labor was not moved up to partnership with ownership in the great war industries. The dollar-a-year system was not replaced.

"The base for closely knit control of the American economy was not shifted by a new system to handle patent rights and to direct wartime scientific and technological research into new channels.

"Adequate preparation for reconversion was not made and through it all, the people were not trusted with the facts."

Legion Installs New Commander During Program

Edward C. Ebert was officially installed as commander of Circleville American Legion Howard Hall Post 139 in Memorial Hall Wednesday night.

Ebert was elected into the top Legion position last month. He has been prominent in Legion work for two decades and is a past commander. He replaced John Bolender.

Installed into office along with the new commander were Robert Shadley, adjutant; Robert Liston, first vice-commander; and Harold Hill, second vice-commander; Robert Moon, finance officer.

Blanche Motschman, first woman member of the post to hold office, was installed as chaplain, Fred Boggs and Kirk Cupp took over as members of the executive committee and Grover Dresbach and Leonard Coffland became sergeants-at-arms.

Ebert's first official act was to name James P. Shea service officer and to appoint Shea and Coffland as athletic advisers.

Pranksters Irk Jersey Cop

AUDOBON, N. J., Oct. 14—Police Chief Floyd L. Deblaker of Audubon swore vengeance today on the prankster who has been deluging him with unwanted cod parcels—and other things.

To date, the chief has received—and sent back—a television set, whisky and a mink coat. Two hearses also arrived to pick up "the body."

Chief Deblaker, who could give no reason for the continued pranks, said:

School Changes Judging Plan

COLUMBUS, Oct. 14—A new judging system will be used in next year's 13th National Institute for Education by Radio.

Ohio State universjty, sponsor of the annual event which will be conducted in Columbus next May 5-8, announced today that those programs heard on nationwide networks would be judged "live" by special committees in the New York area.

Paper Chain Opens Support For Dewey

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14—The Scripps-Howard newspapers today endorsed the presidential candidacy of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey.

An editorial said that the GOP standard-bearer is "much better able" than President Truman to prevent a "backward march" to "isolationism and domestic reaction."

The Scripps-Howard newspapers, of which the Columbus Citizen is one, gave Mr. Truman "full credit" for doing his best "under extraordinary difficulties," but added:

"Mr. Truman's best—and we say it with regret—seems to us not good enough for the next four years. . .He inherited leadership of a party whose top men had grown flabby after three terms of coat-tail riding.

"Under Mr. Truman, the Democartic party fell apart. Today it is hopelessly disorganized."

The editorial accused the president of "sowing seeds of dangerous disunity" in his campaign and called his "blunder" in the proposed Vinson mission to Moscow "the most serious threat" to America's bi-partisan foreign policy.

2 Underground Outfits Said Among Diplomats

Foundation for International Peace.

The witness said such discussions had taken place and that Hiss believed that Field was a promising recruit, according to the committee report made public today.

He said Hiss "made a number of attempts" to draw Field into the organization only to discover at the last minute that Field was head of "another underground apparatus" within the department.

This additional testimony by Chambers came to light as it became apparent that government prosecutors regard current evidence as too slim to prosecute either Chambers of Hiss for perjury.

Their conflicting testimony will be reviewed, however, at a conference between U. S. Attorney George Morris Fay and John Beacher, special assistant to Attorney General Tom Clark.

ually-sane city during the next week's Pumpkin Show.

BOOSTERS present for the testing were each handed a sample. They sipped. Lips smacked. Second round coming up. Lips again pursed, eyebrows raised, heads nodded in agreement. This was a bit of OK.

Dr. Heine wagged a fatherly finger, cautioned his fellow Boosters not to mark themselves down as the first to taste this great discovery. For they were not.

For less commercially-minded lips had touched the cup of Pumpkinjack first. There was the man from the federal government who represented the bureau of internal revenue—the revenooer.

He had sampled, found no alcohol, had given his blessing to Pumpkinjack as a legal beverage.

Then there was another federal man—a strict disciplinarian who flashes his little badge while enforcing laws pertaining to pure foods and drugs. He, too, had placed a stamp of approval on Pumpkinjack.

All in all, the stuff was ready for public consumption. It was non-alcoholic; it was pure as Pumpkinjack could get and it would be quite a novelty at the Pumpkin Show.

That was Dr. Heine's report. He suggested the meeting adjourn, but the Boosters lingered, eyes on the doctor's big vat of brew—we mean, elixir. But the doctor gave a firm "no" and told his colleagues they, like John Q. Public, must wait until next week.

Brewster Says British Ahead In Plane Output

istration before he submits new legislation, he said.

BREWSTER said that he is confident that if Dewey is elected the administration will take further steps toward carrying out the recommendations of the congressional air policy committee, of which Brewster is chairman.

He said that his prototype bill, if it had been enacted, would have made it possible for the government to go into the same commercial turbo-jet projects which England is conducting, and which are being developed in the United States only for military use.

Brewster declared that with U. S. airlines competing with one another abroad, as well as with foreign lines, "we are nearing a showdown." He said:

"Despite heavy traffic, our lines overseas have been operating at a loss."

Brewster said he sees hope the consolidation of U. S. overseas lines may be effected by the administration even without legislation. He pointed out that the administration "has two weapons—mail subsidies and the fact that most of the seven-year overseas route grants expire in two years."

DEATHS and Funerals

JOHN STOVER

Funeral services are being arranged for John Albert Stover, 30, of Harrison Township who died on Luzon in the Phillippines while serving as a private in Company F, 158th Infantry.

The Rev. A. B. Albertson will officiate at 2 p. m. Saturday in Ashville Methodist church. Burial, under direction of the E. F. Schlegel funeral home, will be made in Forest cemetery.

Born in Point Pleasant, W. Va., Oct. 13, 1918, he was a son of Ezra V. and Lucy Burnside Stover.

In addition to the parents, he is survived by his widow, Gladys Swank Stover; three children, John Albert Jr., Stephen, and Dixie Lee, the latter of whom the deceased never saw; four brothers, Rufus, Roy, Ray and Ernest Stover of Harrison Township; and a sister, Mrs. Wilma White of Circleville.

Friends may call in the residence on Route 23, located in the northern part of Harrison Township until time of the services.

VanCamp Is Lone Bidder For Road Repair Contract

Pickaway County commissioners Wednesday awarded a $31,837.40 county road contract to Contractor George W. Van Camp for improvement of 31.34 miles on seven highways.

Bids on the project were first opened June 10, but a lack of money in the county engineer's fund forced postponement until new fee distributions were made. Van Camp's bid was the only one received by the county commissioners, Auditor Fred Tipton said. Following is a list of roads scheduled for improvement.

Circleville-Commercial Point road, Circleville-Florence Chapel road, Circleville-Westfall road Clarks Run road, Harrisburg-Darbyville road, Circleville-Stoutsville road, and Chillicothe-Williamsport road.

Teachers Ready English Parley

More than 100 Pickaway County teachers are expected to attend the English speech and grammar lecture in Jackson Township school at 3 p. m. Monday.

The lecture is to be given by Miss Dorothy Hoddinott, English specialist associated with the Houton-Mifflin publishing company. She is to explain latest methods of classroom teaching and will follow up with a question-answer period.

Columbus Man Agrees To Pay

When haled before Magistrate Oscar Root on a non-support count, Carl E. Thompson, 29, of Columbus, agreed to pay his wife $25 per week for the care of their two children.

Thompson was apprehended in Columbus on an arrest affidavit filed by his wife, Edna V. Thompson of Circleville.

All studies will be conducted on a four-year basis.

Present schedule calls for all morning classes. Students will be available to local businessmen for parttime jobs. Rev. Mr. Keaton explained that a few of the students will be studying here on a work and pay basis.

Graduation at the end of the four-year course will lead up to an AB degree, the school explained. For those preparing to enter a seminary, these classes will provide the groundwork.

The Mount of Praise Bible School is the only one of its kind in the state operated by the Church of Christ in Christian Union. Classes are open to any student able to qualify regardless of sect.

AS FOR the future of the school, Rev. Keaton spoke wistfully of Ohio State university's beginning 75 years ago with some 75 students.

Already in the blueprint stage is a large brick administration building to be located on the East Ohio street entrance to the grounds.

Plans also are underway for students to work on the church farm located east of Circleville on Route 22. Rev. Mr. Keaton said once this plan is in operation much of the school's foodstuffs will be grown there while the student is helping himself through school.

Other members of the board of trustees beside Rev. Mr. Keaton are the Rev. Arthur George of Washington C. H., the Rev. S. G. Wilams of Urbana, Rev. S. G. Williams of Urbana, Springfield and the Rev. W. L. Cozad of Evansville, Ind.

Agents Plan Attending Meet

Larry Best, Pickaway County agricultural agent, and Miss Genevieve Alley, home demonstration agent, are to attend the annual business meeting of Ohio county agents at Ohio State university Thursday evening.

Aim of the annual function is to use comparisons as a means of bettering future agricultural projects in the state while working with material prepared by the extension service of the university.

Free X-Rays Offered By TB Group

Unit To Be Here At Pumpkin Show

Free chest x-rays will be offered all visitors of the Circleville Pumpkin Show through the cooperation of the Pickaway County Tuberculosis and Health Association.

A mobile x-ray unit will be located in front of the courthouse Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of next week and will extend its services from 2 p. m. to 5 p. m., and 7 p. m. to 10 p. m. each day it is here.

For one minute of time at the Pumpkin Show, the x-ray unit will determine if a person has a suspected symptom or an active case of tuberculosis.

The service, which is made possible through the sale of Christmas Seals, will be manned here by a professional team of x-ray technicians.

Completed x-rays are sent to the health association's headquarters in Columbus where they are screened and a confidential report thenceforth is mailed to the person having submitted to the service.

Association officials have urged everyone to take advantage of the free health examination. In quoting an adage, one official stated:

"An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure."

THIS X-RAY unit will offer free service to Circleville Pumpkin Show visitors in front of Pickaway courthouse from 2 to 5 p. m. and 7 to 10 p. m. on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of next week. It is sponsored by Pickaway County Tuberculosis and Health Association.

Garsson Outfit To Reorganize

CHICAGO, Oct. 14—The Batavia Metal Products, Inc., of Batavia, Ill., wartime munitions empire of the Garsson brothers, will submit a reorganization plan by Dec. 1.

Attorneys for the firm set the deadline when they appeared before federal bankruptcy referee Wallace Streeter here yesterday.

At the same time the attorneys said that Henry M. Garsson had severed his connection with the company by settling a $350,000 note held by Batavia for $75,000.

The other brother, Murray, already had cut his ties with the firm.

Do you want to know what the motorwise press has in mind when it talks about "the biggest advance since the self-starter"?

Do you want to know how it feels to command the smoothest flow of power to be found on land, on sea, or in air?

Then settle yourself behind the wheel of a Buick Roadmaster, and try out Dynaflow Drive.*

Here, you will find, is something vastly more than "no clutch" driving.

It's a brand-new way of transmitting the driving force from an engine to the rear wheels – without buck or bobble.

You have a drive that gets completely away from gears which have to shift.

You have a drive that takes you from a standing start – through every speed range – with a steady, willing swoop of power.

You have in Dynaflow a built-in supercharging assembly that combines the smoothness of oil with an instant response to acceleration.

You have, in other words, eager starts, easy-striding climbs, an unfettered pace on the straightaway – controlled by the gentle nudge of your toe on the gas treadle.

Except for parking or backing, there's nothing to do but steer the car, in a whole day's drive.

In ten wonderful minutes, you can check all these facts for yourself.

First step to this great adventure is to give us a call. Then we'll let nature take its course. But we might give you one hint: We'll be glad to book your order, whether or not you have a car to trade.

Grain Drying Idea Gets Airing Here

Ag Engineer Details Practice

Pickaway County farm experts were asking this whether corn and other grain drying is likely to become an accepted practice.

Leo Holman, U. S. Department of Agriculture engineer, says 80 percent of a selected group of farmers indicate their main purpose in drying corn is to safeguard it in storage.

Holman says from 50 to 60 percent of those he has surveyed report corn of improved quality, earlier picking, reduced picker losses, and cleaner corn through artificial drying.

Disadvantages listed by some include high insurance rates, the danger of fire, added costs, and the work of preparing the cribs.

Holman describes results of testing 11 models of nine different makes of dryers on either farms or experimental cribs. In the 51 different drying tests, about 71,000 bushels of corn were dried.

The average moisture per crib ranged from 16.5 to 30 percent before drying and from 11 to 21 percent after. More than 627,000 pounds of water were removed from the corn, an average of 8.8 pounds per bushel.

COST OF FUEL and power for drying from 17 to 27 percent ranged from three to nine cents per bushel, depending on weather conditions, the corn and crib, and the type of dryer.

Whether grain drying on the farm becomes standard practice, however, depends on a number of things. One is that farmers must recognize the large amounts of heat and air needed and realize the job can't be done with a small fan and heater.

Improvements in dryer design will influence the accpetance of farm drying along with changes in crib design to obtain uniform air flow through the corn.

Canton Murder Trial Opening

CANTON, Oct. 14—The first-degree murder trial of John Ross Burson, 33, was to be resumed today in Stark County common pleas court.

Burson is accused of the pistol-slaying of 24-year-old Ellsworth Ruch Jr. on July 8.

The trial was to begin today with the testimony of Stark County Coroner Edward C. Reno, the prosecution's first witness.

Veronica Lake Ignoring Suit; Baby Is Awaited

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 14—Film Star Veronica Lake, who was sued by her mother for $500 monthly support, was under observation in Good Samaritan hospital today awaiting birth of her third child.

The petite screen actress entered the hospital last night. Her physician, Dr. Raymond McBurney, said her condition is good.

Miss Lake said neither she nor her director husband, Andre De Toth, had yet been served with papers in her mother's suit and probably would not give it attention until after birth of the child.

Before she entered the hospital the actress, who became famous for her "peek-a-boo" hair-do which had feminine movie fans throughout the nation hiding one eye beneath long tresses, denied emphatically the allegations in the suit filed Monday by her mother, Mrs. C. Veronica Keane.

Miss Lake declared she paid her mother $115 a week until her step-father died in 1946 and $50 a week after that. She added:

"I've cut the allowance because I'm supporting my grandmother, my mother-in-law, two children, a nurse—and now another baby is due."

Mrs. Keane said in her suit she had put her life savings into the screen star's career, only to be left destitute. She denied Miss Lake and her husband "always paid the backlog due her from time to time."

She declared that "whenever a lapse in payments made a backlog they never caught up."

Experts Predict New Yorkers To Turn Republican

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14—Rep. Ross (R) N. Y., predicted Thursday that New York City will go Republican in the next month's presidential balloting for the first time in 24 years.

The Republican congressman said Gov. Thomas E. Dewey will carry the Democratic stronghold by 108,000 votes and the entire state by 800,000 plurality.

The last time New York City went Republican in a presidential election was in 1924, when Calvin Coolidge received a plurality of 136,939 over John W. Davis, the Democratic nominee. Coolidge carried the state by 869,262.

New York state's 47 electoral votes went to Franklin D. Roosevelt during the last four presidential elections. The last time the state went Republican was in 1928, when Herbert Hoover received a plurality of 103,481 votes over Alfred E. Smith, the Democratic presidential nominee.

How to Celebrate Your Wedding Anniversary

The "Dutch" Millers celebrated their Tin Wedding Anniversary Saturday. Everything had to be tin. Folks even ate off tin plates, and drank coffee out of tin cups.

When it was time to drink a toast to the "bride and groom," out came the final touch: ice cold beer in cans. And come the Millers' 15th anniversary (Glass) I expect we'll be toasting them with sparkling beer in bottles!

And I couldn't help thinking that there was a lesson for married folks in the way Dutch and his missus have got along together—in their policy of live-and-let-live, with never a criticism of each other's differences in taste.

From where I sit, it's due to two things: Temperance—as that moderate preference for beer suggests, and Tolerance—for their own differences of opinion—and for the tastes of others, whether applied to beer, to politics, or how to celebrate an anniversary.

FRIGHTENED GENERALS

The most frightened men in Europe before and during the war were the German generals. This appears from "The German Generals Talk", a volume of interviews with the captured German leaders, written by the British military critic, Basil H. Liddell Hart. Such fear seems strange for veteran soldiers, and still more so for generals, who are supposed to set an example. The explanation is that the German military men had the bad luck to be working for Hitler.

Even the highest German commanders were in mortal terror of Hitler. They did not venture to run counter to his slightest whim, no matter how preposterous they thought it. During the latter days of the war their task was made harder because Hitler would not sanction the slightest withdrawal of an army unit, even if that meant great strategic gains. Therefore German divisions were battered to pieces where they stood when a withdrawal might have saved them. If Hitler forbade a withdrawal, the general were afraid to disobey.

Why did they not try to overthrow him? Some did, and were caught and hanged. Others refrained because the troops, representing the mass of the German people, believed implicitly in Hitler to the last. They would not have supported any revolt. So the generals continued to follow orders which they knew would lead to destruction.

Most people would be frightened if their lives and those of their families were at the mercy of a homicidal maniac.

VETERANS AND THE WAR

FORMER service people are beginning to read about the war, librarians report. For a long time it was impossible to sell them any literature on the life they had left. Now they are beginning to draw books on this or that campaign in which they had a part.

This is a reassuring sign. It means that the boredom and horror of military life have begun to wear off, that the veterans are settling down to normal life, and that their careers in the armed services will assume their proper proportion as years of which they may be proud until the end of their days.

"There are too many cars on the road". Even the most inveterate drivers are beginning to say this as they crawl home during rush hours. They do not, of course, mean that they themselves should leave their cars at home.

The photographer who wanted a picture of a typically American scene might take one of an automobile in a "No Parking" zone.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

Among American officials, only the judges of the federal courts are chosen for life. Even limitations set during the New Deal concerning old age and disabilities in no manner affect the intent of the authors of our political system that judges should be aloof from the fortunes of politics or the pressures of the moment.

This must be particularly true of justices of the Supreme Court of the United States, whose judgments possess a quality of finality upon which the life, happiness and property of each individual in the country are dependent.

The court possesses no power to enforce its dicta. Andrew Jackson once challenged the capability, the ability of the Supreme Court to enforce its decisions. The decisions of the court are enforced by general acceptance. No one questions the authority of the court; no other court, federal or state, sets itself above the Supreme Court because it possesses neither an army nor a police force to insist upon its authority.

The justices of the Supreme Court must therefore be respected above all other men. Certainly, since the days of John Marshall, the respect for the Chief Justice of the United States has grown among the American people.

President Roosevelt sent Justice Owen J. Roberts to investigate the Pearl Harbor failure. That was an unfortunate appointment because Roberts, a man of the highest probity, was immediately involved in a controversy as to whether he deceived the American people in favor of Roosevelt. That controversy has continued to this day, in spite of the fact that Roberts has resigned from the court and now heads the law school of the University of Pennsylvania.

Also, Justice Robert Jackson was appointed to manage the Nuremberg trials. That too led to serious controversy. It was an unfortunate appointment, because Jackson is one of the better justices of the Supreme Court.

Now arises the question of President Truman involving Chief Justice Vinson in a political mission to Stalin to deal with the Berlin situation. The conduct of foreign affairs is the function of the secretary of state. The Chief Justice of the United States has nothing to do with it. Apart from that, the Berlin situation is one of great controversy. It has already been submitted to the United Nations after prolonged negotiations among Four Powers which ended in failure.

There is no reason for assuming that Chief Justice Vinson has the preparation, the experience, the training or knowledge to justify the belief that he can deal with the Berlin problem more competently than anyone who has, up to now, been dealing with it.

Certainly, he is not more prepared for the task than Gen. Lucius Clay or Dr. Philip Jessup. He does not speak Russian; Stalin speaks no Engliish. He is an authority neither on Russian nor German affairs.

WHY TRADE WITH RUSSIA?

ONCE the metals most heard of were such familiar ones as iron, tin and copper. Now the ones most talked of are chromium, titanium, uranium and manganese.

The point of all this is that in 1937 Russia produced 3,000,000 metric tons of manganese, and the United States only 40,887.

DIET AND HEALTH

Heart Disease in the Elderly

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

TODAY medical men are devoting more time and thought to the problems of the aged than ever before, not only with the hope of prolonging life but of making it more comfortable during the declining years.

This is a very worth-while effort because the aged are faced with gradual physical and mental decline. Changes occur particularly in the connective tissues of the body, and these changes interfere with the nutrition of the body tissues in general.

Older Age Groups

Many patients in the older age groups suffer from diseases affecting the coronary arteries which carry blood to the heart muscle, as well as from high blood pressure and some degree of heart failure. Hardening of the arteries throughout the body may limit the blood supply available to the various body structures.

In treating these conditions in the aged, so-called physical medicine has been found to be of some importance. By physical medicine is meant the use of such things as heat, light, massage, and exercise.

Heart Disease Patients

In patients with heart disease, physical medicine will not cure the condition but may bring about enough improvement so that the patient can live a more comfortable and more active life. Certain forms of physical treatment may be used at home. These include such things as simple, mild exercise and massage. The correct use of these measures helps to prevent the weakening of muscles and aids in keeping the patient in better physical condition, so that as his heart disorder improves, he can more quickly resume normal activities.

Many patients with heart disease are benefited by baths in so-called mineral waters. Many of these mineral waters contain carbon dioxide. There is evidence that the carbon dioxide is taken up by the skin through the mineral baths and has an effect on the smaller blood vessels near the surface of the body. With such treatment, patients seem to have less severe attacks of heart pain and are able to take more exercise without discomfort than they could without the baths.

Heat treatment seems to be of value in hardening of the arteries in the legs, with such symptoms as numbness and tingling. The heat is of value, but only when properly applied in the right amounts. There should not be so much heat applied that the temperature of the legs is raised higher than the temperature of the body as a whole. There is value in heat for these patients, but it must be moderate.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

A Reader: What would cause white spots along the tongue in the morning? Should this condition be treated?

Answer: The white spots on the tongue may be due to an infection with germs or possibly with a fungus. They may also come from allergy or sensitivity.

A thorough study should be made so that the exact cause may be found and the proper treatment carried out.

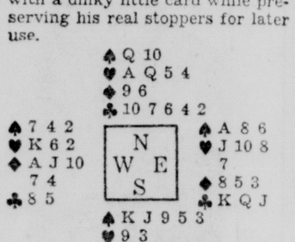
HONOR LEADS PAY WELL

CONVENTIONS followed by all fine players, in the choice of honor leads from certain combinations against a No Trump contract, are a paying proposition in several respects. They not only enable the leader's partner to read his holding. They help the leader to get his suit established as soon as possible. They prevent the declarer from taking a cheap trick with a dinky little card while preserving his real stoppers for later use.



(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♣	Pass
2 ♠	Pass	3 ♥	Pass
3 NT

That was really an overbid hand, with North willing to "reverse" in bidding his hearts at the three level after showing his clubs before. But West made the 3-No Trumps a good contract by means of a bad lead. He selected his fourth-best diamond, the 7, when he should have chosen the J. By so doing he presented the contract to South.

Getting that first trick with the dummy's 9, South led the spade Q, which East allowed to win, then the 10 to the J and the K to the A. East returned the 8 of his partner's diamonds, the Q forcing the A. When the diamond return was won by the K, South proceeded to make an easy game, totaling four tricks in spades, two each in the red suits and one in clubs.

West had a standard "honor combination" lead available to him in the top of his inside sequence. If he had led the J, he would have eliminated one of South's honors. The latter would then have had to try spades and hope West had the A. When East did instead, he could have returned a diamond through the remaining South honor to give his partner four tricks in the suit.

CHAPTER TWENTY-THREE

ALEXANDRIA argued for some time about the wedding. A small one, as obscure as possible—except that Brad could never be obscure—would be to her liking; but, on the other hand, her pride panted after the processional pageantry of a wedding at St. Thomas's.

Brad ended all discussion. He said, "Gail shall be married just as she wishes; in a balloon, on the radio, or in an airplane. I am only incidental. Besides, I like her plans."

And so they were married in the church of Gail's choice; and the bride wore a new suit, the color of wet sand, and sables, the gift of the bridegroom's grandmother. She did not wear the pearls, which were hers as soon as the words were said, because, while modest pearls are worn with a sweater, modest or otherwise, those the approximate size of mothballs are not. As for the sweater, it was handmade, and delicate as the most lacy blouse and the palest shade of green. Her little hat was pale green and sand colored, and she was one of the prettiest brides anyone had ever seen.

Brad's best man was his friend, Angus McKenzie. They had grown up, gone to school and the university together. Angus flew on from Chicago, but his wife, expecting her second baby, could not come. He was a big man given to infrequent speech and no gestures. He was kind to Gail, she liked him but was aware that he withheld his judgment.

There were no other attendants except Pat, and a few guests. Bill came, getting the afternoon off and with eyes for none save the bridesmaid, which was proper. The cousins came, and a few intimate dowager friends of Mrs. Spencer's. Gail had asked Pat's people and three of the girls she knew best and was amazed, making out her meager list, how few of all those she knew she wished to be present. But a number of Brad's friends came, and all who worked with him at the laboratory, including Helena Sturm, the Austrian scientist of whom Brad had spoken to Gail. She was a pretty woman in an entirely natural way, her fair hair was simply dressed, her skin fine and clear, her blue eyes direct. Gail had met her prior to the wedding and admired her very much. She did not quite dare like her; Helena was pleasant but not easy to know. She regretted, she said, that her husband was not well enough to come. Gail knew that Dr. Sturm was confined to a wheel chair, because of injuries in a concentration camp, but Helena always maintained the fiction that, just today, he was not well enough.

The reporters gathered, there was no way to avoid them. This was a quiet wedding but no hole-in-a-corner affair. Mrs. Spencer was inwardly outraged, but outwardly agreeable.

There was no reception. Alexandria had offered the house and mild merriment, but Gail refused it. If Brad didn't mind, she said, she'd rather not.

So that was that and after the wedding Gail aimed her white and green orchids at Pat and they went out to the car, in the darkness of a threatening winter day, and drove along the icy roads to a small inn in Connecticut, where they spent a few days. It was a good interlude, with log fires in the big bedroom and country roads to tramp over; with a frozen river beneath their windows and unobtrusive service.

When they returned to New York, Pompston met them, before the Century pulled out, bringing the extra luggage which had been left at Brad's and taking the car back to the garage. Alexandria and Millicent were with him, to wish them a good journey. They stood in the echoing station, said the usual things, and all longed for the train to depart.

They went to Arizona, for Brad was giving himself a month or better. He was his own employer, the laboratory was his, and he had had no holiday since well before 1941 unless you excepted his war experience, the training and the brief time overseas, which hardly seemed in the nature of a vacation.

He had advised Gail diffidently, "Don't get a lot of clothes, darling, you can pick them up in Arizona."

This touched her, and she had kissed him, saying, "I won't, I promise, and the exchequer would not run to it anyway, even with discounts. But, on the other hand, you deserve a wife with two frocks to her back."

She bought carefully, cotton dresses, a print or two, the necessary accessories, for she would not arrive with an empty trunk. Her savings account was flat as last night's wine before she had finished, but not until she was married did she feel free to draw upon the money Brad had settled on her.

He explained it carefully, as if embarrassed. He had made a will, he said, "and arrangements."

"If I die, darling, you become my heir; also Gran's, by the way. The only strings to the money are attached to our mutual heirs." He had smiled then. "The hypothetical sons and daughters of whom my grandfather took note. But I'll live a long time. And also I've made a settlement on you, which you'll have, whether I walk out on you—a fantastic prospect—or you on me, in what is known as high dudgeon . . . what is it by the way, and should we try on for size? Understand?"

He was making it easy for her, she understood, and nodded, her eyes filling. He was very good to her.

At the Arizona ranch they lived in a comfortable cabin and took their meals with the other guests. And sometimes they drove into Phoenix and it was fun to buy clothes there, sun suits and bathing suits, levis and giddy skirts, Mexican blouses and full, gay skirts.

In every way, Gail's husband was good to her, gentle, not asking more than she could give. Yet she could give a good deal, she learned, because she was so fond of him, and grateful . . . and to be grateful without resentment is a marvelous thing. Her reactions were natural and happy, and were not burdensome to her. For her response to Brad was not weighted with the crushing load of an absorbing, urgent love, one which cannot rejoice in the pleasure of the moment but must devour the beloved. Gail knew nothing of such love; she had once experienced its shadow, but, as it were, only in prelude. So now she was happy in an uncomplicated fashion, under the bending skies and the violet shadows of mountains.

Their cabin looked over a cacti garden, and across to a swimming pool. It was a very de luxe ranch, complete with wranglers, square dances and scenery.

Gail swam very well. She had learned in a YWCA pool as a child. And she danced even better. It amused her that she had been here before, at nearby resorts, snatched there by plane and away again before you could say Desert Fashions.

She had learned to ride, after a fashion, in a New York academy, mainly because Evie took lessons—"It's essential if I'm to go to Hollywood," Evie said—and because it had not proved too expensive. In Arizona she took both tennis and golf lessons, one on a resort hotel court, the other at the club . . . for Brad enjoyed both games, and she wished to be able to play with him. And all this, the friendly cocktail parties, the desert picnics, and the excursions by rented car, filled up the sparkling days, made them pass so quickly you had scarcely time to think.

Walking, riding, sitting by the fire in the cabin, for the nights were cold, they talked, about themselves for the most part. Each added to his picture of the other, filling in the outlines. Brad was the only person to whom she had talked long and openly about her mother, and from the beginning.

"I no longer dream about her," she said one afternoon as they lay in long chairs outside the cabin and watched the sun decline in glory. "Isn't that strange?"

"No, darling."

He was brown from the sun, and Gail had acquired an even, dark gold, her gray eyes brilliant against it, her hair spectacular. Now and then an unregenerate tourist found his way to the ranch and seeing Gail at the pool, in a white bathing suit, whistled loud and long or, crossing the border of his uninhibited thoughts, exclaimed admiringly, "Ole, ole!"

"Why?"

He said, "When you're happy—and you are, aren't you?—perhaps you do not dream."

But he knew, as she did, and as any psychiatrist could have told them, why. It was not because she was happy that the dreams had gone, but because she had kept a promise.

Now there was regret to take the place of dreams, a regret familiar to so many . . . if only she had lived, if only I could have shared this with her . . .

ONE MAN'S OPINION

The news is more discouraging every day. It appears now that with eight presidential candidates none really is satisfactory to Harold Ickes or John Lewis.

Under the circumstances the decent thing to do is to recall the delegates to all conventions and start over, perhaps submitting a few names in advance to Mr. Ickes and Mr. Lewis.

Otherwise these two normally jolly boys will be forced to carry out their intention of voting for the wrong men. Each has a wrong man of his own selection.

The only difference is that Mr. Ickes personally inspected his wrong man and Mr. Lewis is content to go along on his lesser-of-two-evils boy without personal contact.

But we are making some progress in our labor-management relations. The Supreme Court has just ruled that a worker cannot be given a wage increase for merit without his permission.

JOBS UPON A TIME

When Walter Reuther, president of the United Automobile, Aircraft and Agricultural Implement Workers of America, known less formidably as the UAW, was a boy, he supplemented the family earnings (which were by no means large) by delivering newspapers. He was the second of five children, and his father, Valentine Reuther, drove a brewers' wagon for a living at Wheeling, W. Va. Walter began his labor organizing at the age of 16. His family have always been interested in labor problems. His father was a friend of the late Eugene Debs, and Walter worked for a steel corporation until he was fired for labor organizing activities. It was then he went to Detroit, where he has, by dint of hard work, completed his formal education and become a Napoleon in the labor movement. Recently he made the headlines when an unknown would-be assassin shot him. He has since recovered from his wound.

Betty Field was graduated from the American Academy of Dramatic Arts and her first stage roles were ingenue leads in George Abbott productions. Betty was born in Boston and appeared on the stage in such Broadway hits as Three Men on a Horse, Boy Meets Girl. Her screen debut came in 1939 in What a Life. In some of her screen roles Betty has met a tragic end—for instance, she was choked to death in Of Mice and Men, poisoned in King's Row. Some of her more recent pictures are Frenchman's Creek, Ministry of Fear, Life with Father, etc. Betty's Mrs. Elmer Rice in private life, and has two children.

Pages From the Diary of An Antiquated Reporter:

Up to a beautiful morning and wishing for similar weather next week when the Pumpkin Show is in progress. Also thinking about Florida where I would have been this day except for unexpected circumstances. The Army had asked me to make the trip by plane, leaving Tuesday afternoon, spending the night in Southern Florida, going out by plane Wednesday morning at daylight to witness a demonstration of combined Army, Navy and Marine Corps air might and returning by plane Wednesday night. Passed that one with extreme regret. May see some of it in the news reels.

In the morning mail a letter from a Pittsburgh citizen who had read about "Pumpkin Jack" and wished information as to the making. Said it sounded good. What an imagination! Dropped him a line to the effect that I am more of an apple jack man myself and know nothing about Pumpkin Jack and intend learning nothing.

Since next week is the annual big Pumpkin event you may wish to try something new. At least I never heard of it before until Howard Glitt started enthusing over pumpkin soup as prepared by his charming French wife. Says it is widely known and very popular in her home land. So, I asked for the recipe and here it is: Remove rhind and dice two generous slices of pumpkin. Place in saucepan with two cups of cold water and a pinch of salt. Cook over slow heat for one hour. Pour off water, mash pumpkin, add one quart of hot milk, two tablespoons of butter, and sugar to taste.

Chatted with Ray Bales and learned how he had gone to Cleveland for that part of the World Series and also had seen the Browns in action. All of his life Ray has been actively interested in sports, but not until this time did he ever see a World Series game. Thrilled to the score.

Came a note from University hospital to the effect that Ed Peters, who has been seriously ill, is on the mend. Asked that I keep a spot for him at the Pumpkin Show, during which he expects to be at home.

There goes Tom Brannon who told me about his great fishing prowess on Lake Manitoulin recently and something about Charlie Mumaw who rode the boat with him. And now come Walter Stout and Dick Robinson who claim that they also were in the party and caught all the big fish. Me, I don't believe either group, but pass on their claims for what they may be worth. Remember they all are fishermen.

Who was it said Europe does not need help. For 19 out of the last 36 years Europe has been preparing for war, fighting a war or cleaning up after a war. Our record is not quite so "good," but give us time brother. I'm wondering who will help us when we get into the same condition as Europe. We don't want war now, never have wanted war, but we always get shoved in one way or another. Someday we may learn that the quickest and easiest way to win a war is to strike hard and unexpectedly. That's undoubtedly the way we will get hit one of these days. Too much is at stake right now for us to be too much of the dime novel hero type. That type of chap who had to be beaten within an inch of death before he realized that the villain meant him dirt always was a junior grade dope in my book.

FRIGHTENED GENERALS

The most frightened men in Europe before and during the war were the German generals. This appears from "The German Generals Talk", a volume of interviews with the captured German leaders, written by the British military critic, Basil H. Liddell Hart. Such fear seems strange for veteran soldiers, and still more so for generals, who are supposed to set an example. The explanation is that the German military men had the bad luck to be working for Hitler.

Even the highest German commanders were in mortal terror of Hitler. They did not venture to run counter to his slightest whim, no matter how preposterous they thought it. During the latter days of the war their task was made harder because Hitler would not sanction the slightest withdrawal of an army unit, even if that meant great strategic gains. Therefore German divisions were battered to pieces where they stood when a withdrawal might have saved them. If Hitler forbade a withdrawal, the general were afraid to disobey.

Why did they not try to overthrow him? Some did, and were caught and hanged. Others refrained because the troops, representing the mass of the German people, believed implicitly in Hitler to the last. They would not have supported any revolt. So the generals continued to follow orders which they knew would lead to destruction.

Most people would be frightened if their lives and those of their families were at the mercy of a homicidal maniac.

VETERANS AND THE WAR

FORMER service people are beginning to read about the war, librarians report. For a long time it was impossible to sell them any literature on the life they had left. Now they are beginning to draw books on this or that campaign in which they had a part.

This is a reassuring sign. It means that the boredom and horror of military life have begun to wear off, that the veterans are settling down to normal life, and that their careers in the armed services will assume their proper proportion as years of which they may be proud until the end of their days.

"There are too many cars on the road". Even the most inveterate drivers are beginning to say this as they crawl home during rush hours. They do not, of course, mean that they themselves should leave their cars at home.

The photographer who wanted a picture of a typically American scene might take one of an automobile in a "No Parking" zone.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

Among American officials, only the judges of the federal courts are chosen for life. Even limitations set during the New Deal concerning old age and disabilities in no manner affect the intent of the authors of our political system that judges should be aloof from the fortunes of politics or the pressures of the moment.

This must be particularly true of justices of the Supreme Court of the United States, whose judgments possess a quality of finality upon which the life, happiness and property of each individual in the country are dependent.

The court possesses no power to enforce its dicta. Andrew Jackson once challenged the capability, the ability of the Supreme Court to enforce its decisions. The decisions of the court are enforced by general acceptance. No one questions the authority of the court; no other court, federal or state, sets itself above the Supreme Court because it possesses neither an army nor a police force to insist upon its authority.

The justices of the Supreme Court must therefore be respected above all other men. Certainly, since the days of John Marshall, the respect for the Chief Justice of the United States has grown among the American people.

President Roosevelt sent Justice Owen J. Roberts to investigate the Pearl Harbor failure. That was an unfortunate appointment because Roberts, a man of the highest probity, was immediately involved in a controversy as to whether he deceived the American people in favor of Roosevelt. That controversy has continued to this day, in spite of the fact that Roberts has resigned from the court and now heads the law school of the University of Pennsylvania.

Also, Justice Robert Jackson was appointed to manage the Nuremberg trials. That too led to serious controversy. It was an unfortunate appointment, because Jackson is one of the better justices of the Supreme Court.

Now arises the question of President Truman involving Chief Justice Vinson in a political mission to Stalin to deal with the Berlin situation. The conduct of foreign affairs is the function of the secretary of state. The Chief Justice of the United States has nothing to do with it. Apart from that, the Berlin situation is one of great controversy. It has already been submitted to the United Nations after prolonged negotiations among Four Powers which ended in failure.

There is no reason for assuming that Chief Justice Vinson has the preparation, the experience, the training or knowledge to justify the belief that he can deal with the Berlin problem more competently than anyone who has, up to now, been dealing with it.

Certainly, he is not more prepared for the task than Gen. Lucius Clay or Dr. Philip Jessup. He does not speak Russian; Stalin speaks no Engliish. He is an authority neither on Russian nor German affairs.

WHY TRADE WITH RUSSIA?

ONCE the metals most heard of were such familiar ones as iron, tin and copper. Now the ones most talked of are chromium, titanium, uranium and manganese.

The point of all this is that in 1937 Russia produced 3,000,000 metric tons of manganese, and the United States only 40,837.

DIET AND HEALTH

Heart Disease in the Elderly

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

TODAY medical men are devoting more time and thought to the problems of the aged than ever before, not only with the hope of prolonging life but of making it more comfortable during the declining years.

This is a very worth-while effort because the aged are faced with gradual physical and mental decline. Changes occur particularly in the connective tissues of the body, and these changes interfere with the nutrition of the body tissues in general.

Older Age Groups

Many patients in the older age groups suffer from diseases affecting the coronary arteries which carry blood to the heart muscle, as well as from high blood pressure and some degree of heart failure. Hardening of the arteries throughout the body may limit the blood supply available to the various body structures.

In treating these conditions in the aged, so-called physical medicine has been found to be of some importance. By physical medicine is meant the use of such things as heat, light, massage, and exercise.

Heart Disease Patients

In patients with heart disease, physical medicine will not cure the condition but may bring about enough improvement so that the patient can live a more comfortable and more active life. Certain forms of physical treatment may be used at home. These include such things as simple, mild exercise and massage. The correct use of these measures helps to prevent the weakening of muscles and aids in keeping the patient in better physical condition, so that as his heart disorder improves, he can more quickly resume normal activities.

Many patients with heart disease are benefited by baths in so-called mineral waters. Many of these mineral waters contain carbon dioxide. There is evidence that the carbon dioxide is taken up by the skin through the mineral baths and has an effect on the smaller blood vessels near the surface of the body. With such treatment, patients seem to have less severe attacks of heart pain and are able to take more exercise without discomfort than they could without the baths.

Heat treatment seems to be of value in hardening of the arteries in the legs, with such sympfoms as numbness and tingling. The heat is of value, but only when properly applied in the right amounts. There should not be so much heat applied that the temperature of the legs is raised higher than the temperature of the body as a whole. There is value in heat for these patients, but it must be moderate.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

A Reader: What would cause white spots along the tongue in the morning? Should this condition be treated?

Answer: The white spots on the tongue may be due to an infection with germs or possibly with a fungus. They may also come from allergy or sensitivity.

A thorough study should be made so that the exact cause may be found and the proper treatment carried out.

HONOR LEADS PAY WELL

CONVENTIONS followed by all fine players, in the choice of honor leads from certain combinations against a No Trump contract, are a paying proposition in several respects. They not only enable the leader's partner to read his holding. They help the leader to get his suit established as soon as possible. They prevent the declarer from taking a cheap trick with a dinky little card while preserving his real stoppers for later use.

That was really an overbid hand, with North willing to "reverse" in bidding his hearts at the three level after showing his clubs before. But West made the 3-No Trumps a good contract by means of a bad lead. He selected his fourth-best diamond, the 7, when he should have chosen the J. By so doing he presented the contract to South.

Getting that first trick with the dummy's 9, South led the spade Q, which East allowed to win, then the 10 to the J and the K to the A. East returned the 8 of his partner's diamonds, the Q forcing the A. When the diamond return was won by the K, South proceeded to make an easy game, totaling four tricks in spades, two each in the red suits and one in clubs.

West had a standard "honor combination" lead available to him in the top of his inside sequence. If he had led the J, he would have eliminated one of South's honors. The latter would then have had to try spades and hope West had the A. When East did instead, he could have returned a diamond through the remaining South honor to give his partner four tricks in the suit.

MARRY for MONEY

CHAPTER TWENTY-THREE

ALEXANDRIA argued for some time about the wedding. A small one, as obscure as possible—except that Brad could never be obscure—would be to her liking; but, on the other hand, her pride panted after the processional pageantry of a wedding at St. Thomas's.

Brad ended all discussion. He said, "Gail shall be married just as she wishes; in a balloon, on the radio, or in an airplane. I am only incidental. Besides, I like her plans."

And so they were married in the church of Gail's choice; and the bride wore a new suit, the color of wet sand, and sables, the gift of the bridegroom's grandmother. She did not wear the pearls, which were hers as soon as the words were said, because, while modest pearls are worn with a sweater, modest or otherwise, those the approximate size of mothballs are not. As for the sweater, it was handmade, and delicate as the most lacy blouse and the palest shade of green. Her little hat was pale green and sand colored, and she was one of the prettiest brides anyone had ever seen.

Brad's best man was his friend, Angus McKenzie. They had grown up, gone to school and the university together. Angus flew on from Chicago, but his wife, expecting her second baby, could not come. He was a big man given to infrequent speech and no gestures. He was kind to Gail, she liked him but was aware that he withheld his judgment.

There were no other attendants except Pat, and a few guests. Bill came, getting the afternoon off and with eyes for none save the bridesmaid, which was proper. The cousins came, and a few intimate dowager friends of Mrs. Spencer's. Gail had asked Pat's people and three of the girls she knew best and was amazed, making out her meager list, how few of all those she knew she wished to be present. But a number of Brad's friends came, and all who worked with him at the laboratory, including Helena Sturm, the Austrian scientist of whom Brad had spoken to Gail. She was a preety woman in an entirely natural way, her fair hair was simply dressed, her skin fine and clear, her blue eyes direct. Gail had met her prior to the wedding and admired her very much. She did not quite dare like her; Helena was pleasant but not easy to know. She regretted, she said, that her husband was not well enough to come. Gail knew that Dr. Sturm was confined to a wheel chair, because of injuries in a concentration camp, but Helena always maintained the fiction that, just today, he was not well enough.

There was no reception. Alexandria had offered the house and mild merriment, but Gail refused it. If Brad didn't mind, she said, she'd rather not.

So that was that and after the wedding Gail aimed her white and green orchids at Pat and they went out to the car, in the darkness of a threatening winter day, and drove along the icy roads to a small inn in Connecticut, where they spent a few days. It was a good interlude, with log fires in the big bedroom and country roads to tramp over; with a frozen river beneath their windows and unobtrusive service.

When they returned to New York, Pompston met them, before the Century pulled out, bringing the extra luggage which had been left at Brad's and taking the car back to the garage. Alexandria and Millicent were with him, to wish them a good journey. They stood in the echoing station, said the usual things, and all longed for the train to depart.

They went to Arizona, for Brad was giving himself a month or better. He was his own employer, the laboratory was his, and he had had no holiday since well before 1941 unless you excepted his war experience, the training and the brief time overseas, which hardly seemed in the nature of a vacation.

He had advised Gail diffidently, "Don't get a lot of clothes, darling, you can pick them up in Arizona."

This touched her, and she had kissed him, saying, "I won't, I promise, and the exchequer would not run to it anyway, even with discounts. But, on the other hand, you deserve a wife with two frocks to her back."

She bought carefully, cotton dresses, a print or two, the necessary accessories, for she would not arrive with an empty trunk. Her savings account was flat as last night's wine before she had finished, but not until she was married did she feel free to draw upon the money Brad had settled on her.

He explained it carefully, as if embarrassed. He had made a will, he said, "and arrangements."

He was making it easy for her, she understood, and nodded, her eyes filling. He was very good to her.

At the Arizona ranch they lived in a comfortable cabin and took their meals with the other guests. And sometimes they drove into Phoenix and it was fun to buy clothes there, sun suits and bathing suits, levis and giddy skirts, Mexican blouses and full, gay skirts.

In every way, Gail's husband was good to her, gentle, not asking more than she could give. Yet she could give a good deal, she learned, because she was so fond of him, and grateful . . . and to be grateful without resentment is a marvelous thing. Her reactions were natural and happy, and were not burdensome to her. For her response to Brad was not weighted with the crushing load of an absorbing, urgent love, one which cannot rejoice in the pleasure of the moment but must devour the beloved. Gail knew nothing of such love; she had once experienced its shadow, but, as it were, only in prelude. So now she was happy in an uncomplicated fashion, under the bending skies and the violet shadows of mountains.

She had learned to ride, after a fashion, in a New York academy, mainly because Evie took lessons—"It's essential if I'm to go to Hollywood," Evie said—and because it had not proved too expensive. In Arizona she took both tennis and golf lessons, one on a resort hotel court, the other at the club . . . for Brad enjoyed both games, and she wished to be able to play with him. And all this, the friendly cocktail parties, the desert picnics, and the excursions by rented car, filled up the sparkling days, made them pass so quickly you had scarcely time to think.

Walking, riding, sitting by the fire in the cabin, for the nights were cold, they talked, about themselves for the most part. Each added to his picture of the other, filling in the outlines. Brad was the only person to whom she had talked long and openly about her mother, and from the beginning.

"I no longer dream about her," she said one afternoon as they lay in long chairs outside the cabin and watched the sun decline in glory. "Isn't that strange?"

"No, darling."

He was brown from the sun, and Gail had acquired an even, dark gold, her gray eyes brilliant against it, her hair spectacular. Now and then an unregenerate tourist found his way to the ranch and seeing Gail at the pool, in a white bathing suit, whistled loud and long or, crossing the border of his uninhibited thoughts, exclaimed admiringly, "Ole, ole!"

"Why?"

He said, "When you're happy—and you are, aren't you?—perhaps you do not dream."

But he knew, as she did, and as any psychiatrist could have told them, why. It was not because she was happy that the dreams had gone, but because she had kept a promise.

Now there was regret to take the place of dreams, a regret familiar to so many . . . if only she had lived, if only I could have shared this with her . . .

ONE MAN'S OPINION

The news is more discouraging every day. It appears now that with eight presidential candidates none really is satisfactory to Harold Ickes or John Lewis.

Under the circumstances the decent thing to do is to recall the delegates to all conventions and start over, perhaps submitting a few names in advance to Mr. Ickes and Mr. Lewis.

Otherwise these two normally jolly boys will be forced to carry out their intention of voting for the wrong men. Each has a wrong man of his own selection.

The only difference is that Mr. Ickes personally inspected his wrong man and Mr. Lewis is content to go along on his lesser-of-two-evils boy without personal contact.

But we are making some progress in our labor-management relations. The Supreme Court has just ruled that a worker cannot be given a wage increase for merit without his permission.

THE ANSWER, QUICK!

1. Are there any rhinestone mines in the U. S.?
2. What would you do with fondant if it was offered to you?
3. In what country is the large commercial city of Johannesburg located?
4. What are English policemen called?
5. What type of boat looks the same whether it is coming or going?

IT'S BEEN SAID

I was born an American; I will live an American: I shall die an American.—Daniel Webster.

YOUR FUTURE

This is a good time to do work that calls for an artistic sense and discrimination. Your anniversary is of good augury—business progress, prosperous travel and success of children is indicated. Many pleasant surprises are also in store for you.

JOBS UPON A TIME

When Walter Reuther, president of the United Automobile, Aircraft and Agricultural Implement Workers of America, known less formidably as the UAW, was a boy, he supplemented the family earnings (which were by no means large) by delivering newspapers. He was the second of five children, and his father, Valentine Reuther, drove a brewers' wagon for a living at Wheeling, W. Va. Walter began his labor organizing at the age of 16. His family have always been interested in labor problems. His father was a friend of the late Eugene Debs, and Walter worked for a steel corporation until he was fired for labor organizing activities. It was then he went to Detroit, where he has, by dint of hard work, completed his formal education and become a Napoleon in the labor movement. Recently he made the headlines when an unknown would-be assassin shot him. He has since recovered from his wound.

Betty Field was graduated from the American Academy of Dramatic Arts and her first stage roles were ingenue leads in George Abbott productions. Betty was born in Boston and appeared on the stage in such Broadway hits as Three Men on a Horse, Boy Meets Girl. Her screen debut came in 1939 in What a Life. In some of her screen roles Betty has met a tragic end — for instance, she was choked to death in Of Mice and Men, poisoned in King's Row. Some of her more recent pictures are Frenchman's Creek, Ministry of Fear, Life with Father, etc. Betty's Mrs. Elmer Rice in private life, and has two children.

Pages From the Diary of An Antiquated Reporter:

Up to a beautiful morning and wishing for similar weather next week when the Pumpkin Show is in progress. Also thinking about Florida where I would have been this day except for unexpected circumstances. The Army had asked me to make the trip by plane, leaving Tuesday afternoon, spending the night in Southern Florida, going out by plane Wednesday morning at daylight to witness a demonstration of combined Army, Navy and Marine Corps air might and returning by plane Wednesday night. Passed that one with extreme regret. May see some of it in the news reels.

In the morning mail a letter from a Pittsburgh citizen who had read about "Pumpkin Jack" and wished information as to the making. Said it sounded good. What an imagination! Dropped him a line to the effect that I am more of an apple jack man myself and know nothing about Pumpkin Jack and intend learning nothing.

Since next week is the annual big Pumpkin event you may wish to try something new. At least I never heard of it before until Howard Glitt started enthusing over pumpkin soup as prepared by his charming French wife. Says it is widely known and very popular in her home land. So, I asked for the recipe and here it is: Remove rhind and dice two generous slices of pumpkin. Place in saucepan with two cups of cold water and a pinch of salt. Cook over slow heat for one hour. Pour off water, mash pumpkin, add one quart of hot milk, two tablespoons of butter, and sugar to taste.

Chatted with Ray Bales and learned how he had gone to Cleveland for that part of the World Series and also had seen the Browns in action. All of his life Ray has been actively interested in sports, but not until this time did he ever see a World Series game. Thrilled to the score.

Came a note from University hospital to the effect that Ed Peters, who has been seriously ill, is on the mend. Asked that I keep a spot for him at the Pumpkin Show, during which he expects to be at home.

There goes Tom Brannon who told me about his great fishing prowess on Lake Manitoulin recently and something about Charlie Mumaw who rode the boat with him. And now come Walter Stout and Dick Robinson who claim that they also were in the party and caught all the big fish. Me, I don't believe either group, but pass on their claims for what they may be worth. Remember they all are fishermen.

Who was it said Europe does not need help. For 19 out of the last 36 years Europe has been preparing for war, fighting a war or cleaning up after a war. Our record is not quite so "good," but give us time brother. I'm wondering who will help us when we get into the same condition as Europe. We don't want war now, never have wanted war, but we always get shoved in one way or another. Someday we may learn that the quickest and easiest way to win a war is to strike hard and unexpectedly. That's undoubtedly the way we will get hit one of these days. Too much is at stake right now for us to be too much of the dime novel hero type. That type of chap who had to be beaten within an inch of death before he realized that the villain meant him dirt always was a junior grade dope in my book.

Special Session Observed At Lutheran Church

An "ingathering thankoffering" meeting was observed by members of Trinity Lutheran Ladies Society Wednesday in the parish house.

A cooperative luncheon under the leadership of Mrs. Charles Diehlman was served. The program opened in ritualistic form with group singing and a devotional service. Mrs. G. L. Troutman and Mrs. Arthur Adkins were in charge of the special meeting. A playlet was presented by Mrs. Richard Fellmuth and Mrs. Harold Anderson.

Household Hints

Leftover chicken will go a long way if diced and added to a mixture of rice and tomato sauce. Bake in a casserole topped with buttered crumbs, or heat on top of the range.

Cabbage should be cooked only a short time to save flavor and vitamins, and to reduce the amount of cabbage odor in the house.

Miss America's Figure Helped By Exercise

BY BEATRICE SHOPP
MISS AMERICA OF 1948

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 14 — Probably a major problem of most girls my age is how to keep one's figure slim—or how to acquire a trim slimness in the beginning.

Perhaps you think you were born to be pleasantly plump, but it's my opinion that any teen-ager can have a slim shape if she will only work at it.

And you don't have to starve yourself, either.

Many times, girls have asked me how I can eat as much and as often as I do and still keep to the proper proportions for my height.

Well, it's really easy if you just learn to keep busy.

First of all, I'm sort of a farm girl. By that, I mean I live on four acres which gives me plenty of space in which to keep active.

We keep chickens at our place outside Minneapolis and also do some vegetable gardening.

That means someone has to look after those chickens, weed the garden and keep our lawn ship-shape. That "someone" is usually me.

There's nothing like lawn mowing to keep your weight down. And the constant bending and pulling of the weeding operation helps work off the extra pounds, too.

When snow falls, Dad doesn't let me get idle. I'm out after every heavy snow running behind the snow plow on our road.

Now maybe you don't have a garden or a large lawn to take care of, but someone must have to do the daily chores at your house.

Why not volunteer? You'll help your mother and help yourself keep the pounds down by doing a few simple household tasks every day.

As for sports activities, I choose swimming in Summer and skiing in Winter.

Miss Beavers Leads WCTU Meet

Miss Letha Beavers presented a review of a book entitled "Alcohol And Its Effect Upon The Human Body" by Dr. Haven Emerson before members of Circleville WCTU.

Mrs. Chester Valentine was hostess for the meeting Wednesday afternoon in her home on East Mound street. Mrs. Lawrence Warner had charge of the worship services.

Miss Beavers' book review was interspersed with questions and answers by the women. A dessert course was served by Mrs. Valentine assisted by Mrs. N. E. Noggle.

FERGUSON WON'T LAUGH

Cure For Cancer Is Seen In Shrunken Head Secret

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14—Doctor Wilburn H. Ferguson does not go in for any of the "Bongo, Bongo, Bongo, I Don't Wanta Leave The Congo" routine. As far as he's concerned, civilization is OK—and the fact that he's been away from it for some 17 years or so only intensifies his appreciation of it, now that he's back home again.

But he does believe that modern medicine men still can profit by paying attention to the results of certain slightly unorthodox experiments conducted by their somewhat more superstitious brethren in the savage state.

And, to dramatize his point of view, he carries with him a handful of shrunken human heads.

When the oohing and aahing subsides, Dr. Ferguson points out that the shrinking process developed by the savages may well prove to be a brand new attack on the cancer problem.

Ferguson, a bespectacled and personable young (40 or so) medic who was born in Oklahoma, actually has no Congo connections at all, but is an Amazon basin resident who recently returned from Ecuador. He has, as previously indicated, been there quite a spell.

His literal mission in the states is to interest university medical students in the establishment an international teaching hospital for post-graduate students at Quito, Ecuador. Specifically, he has been director of anesthesia at the San Juan De Dios hospital there for some time.

BUT THE BIG, blondish doctor has more than a single mission in mind. He has brought back, to turn over to American medical experts, more than 24 crude drugs which have been used by the Jivaro tribes along the Amazon to treat various ailments for many years.

In most instances, it took him nearly all of the 17 years he spent among the Jivaros to finally gain access to the secrets of the tribal medicine men and chieftains.

Medical and scientific experts here in Washington agree that, in at least one or two cases, he unquestionably is the only white man ever to have been given the secret, so-called savage formulae.

One of these super-secrets—and, of course, the most dramatic one — concerns the shrinking of human heads and its possible connection with a formula for fighting cancer.

The reason why top-flight medical men are interested in it is, of course, highly technical, but still understandable.

It boils down to the fact that cancer is a pathological condition in which the cellular tissue throws off all normal restraints of growth and continues to grow and multiply. No medical or scientific formulae as yet have been successful either in stopping its growth or in shrinking the tissue after the growth has gotten well underway.

Ferguson, who has brought eight shrunken human heads with him as samples, points out that the process which the Jivaros have perfected leaves the cartilaginous tissue of the ears and the nose intact, and in perfect proportion—although many times reduced.

And he has brought with him the drug used in that shrinking.

IT IS, of course, quite simple to debunk the whole business. All that is necessary is to point out that the Jivaros were shrinking dead tissue, whereas the fighting of cancer requires the shrinking of living tissue. And that is speaking only in the layman's somewhat loose language on the subject. When the medical experts have at it, they can make mock of the whole theory.

The only thing is that they don't. And this is why:

The hospital where Ferguson works was dedicated by Spain in 1565 and has been in continuous operation ever since. It has been responsible for some of the most dramatic forward steps in medical science throughout nearly four centuries.

More than that, the area involved, for example, is the one where the quinine was first used against malaria (in 1638), and where modern medicine's newest drugs were found.

It has produced such drugs as cocaine, caffeine, cascara sagrada (a laxative), curare and rotenone. Cocaine, of course, is the basis of almost all modern anesthesia; curare, which was first born as a blow-gun poison, became effectively useful in spastic and shock therapy; and rotonone, which is harmless to humans but poison to snakes and insects, has become one of the most deadly of all insecticides.

All of these things, the jungle-living Jivaros have given modern medicine. And if their head-hunting habits have, by accident, stumbled across a possible cancer cure, Doctor Ferguson is not one to laugh it off!

DEWEY STILL FAR AHEAD

Barberpole Poll Shows Truman In Wee Gain

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14—If the average man is brave enough to tell his barber the truth, even with a razor poised over his unprotected throat, then President Truman is gaining slightly on Gov. Thomas Dewey—but the latter still is safely out in front.

That is the latest presidential election campaign progress report of Harry's barber poll. And, regardless of the part (if any) played by the poised razor, there would seem to be little reason to doubt the accuracy of the report.

For the slightly sensational striped-pole poll has been operating for more than 20 years—and it hasn't missed on a major election prediction in all that time!

Perhaps the main reason for the poll's success is that its originator and operator, one Harry Rich, is primarily not a professional feeler of the public pulse, but a barber. He bosses a sizable tonsorial establishment in downtown Washington. This sampling of the people's views is strictly a sideline with him.

Hence, he doesn't take himself too seriously, or start jumping at conclusions when the race is halfway run. He just keeps the tabulations and issues periodic reports to the barber shop crowd—and anyone else who might be interested.

IN THIS regard, it might be noted that both Republican and Democratic national headquarters send scouts around surreptitiously to get the latest bulletin from Harry's barber poll!

Another reason why Barber Rich has not yet fallen by the wayside with other more renowned political prophets is that he pays comparatively little attention to what Washingtonians say—although many a high-ranking legislative and executive leader eases into his chairs daily for a once-over-lightly.

He gets most of his dope from fellow barbers across the country. In his spare time, he sends them hundreds of letters, telling them what questions to ask their customers. They ask the questions and send him the answers.

The latest tabulation for instance, included reports from thousands of questions asked in 13 scattered states. Roughly, its results racked up like this:

Truman still can take only three of the 13;

Dewey continues to hold the lead in nine;

The thirteenth (Massachusetts) now is a neck-and-neck race;

But, since the last poll progress report, Truman has sliced the Dewey lead in half a dozen states, showing sizeable gains in Rhode Island and Arizona particularly.

According to the haircut-and-shave (but no longer six bits) citizens, Wallace is completely out of the race. No one gives him even an outside chance.

IN SEVERAL states, a small proportion of those polled thought that Gov. J. Strom Thurmond still might win—largely on the theory that an electoral college deadlock might throw the decision into the House of Representatives.

Another interesting point turned up by the poll is that in several states, with heavy emphasis on California, the customers who plan to vote Republican claim they'll be voting for Warren, rather than Dewey.

Also, it was noted that in North and South Dakota a few diehards still were sticking to Stassen!

Truman showed additional gains in Indiana, Oregon and Maine, but definitely lost ground in Massachusetts where the tabulations stood at 48.1 percent for the President and 48.2 for Dewey. The remainder was parcelled out among the odd parties, so to speak.

Stubborn Vermont, which hasn't changed in the last three barber poll reports, still stood at 35 percent for Truman, 65 percent for Dewey—and one hundred percent for a reduction in the price of haircuts!

2 Women Spies Get Freedom

OTTAWA, Oct. 14—Two women convicted of serving the wartime Soviet spy ring in Canada have been released from prison at Kingston, Ont.

An official government announcement said today that Emma Woikin, former Canadian civil servant, and Kathleen Willsher, former assistant in the office of the British high commissioner, were freed when their terms expired.

Both women had been named by Igor Gouzenko, Russian embassy cipher clerk who tipped off Canadian authorities to the spy ring in 1945.

Record Talks Collapse

NEW YORK, Oct. 14—A terse 23-word statement today collapsed strenuous efforts to remove the ban clamped on manufacture of new phonograph records last Jan. 1 by James C. Petrillo.

Petrillo, president of the AFL American Federation of Musicians, remained adamant after a week of conferences with seven leading disc companies.

Their joint statement announced:

"The AFM and the industry representatives regret that the current discussions have failed to produce an agreement. No further meetings have been scheduled.

County Schools To Participate

Pickaway County schools will dismiss Oct. 29 so that teachers may attend the 77th annual session of the Central Ohio Teacher's Association in Dayton.

Circleville schools will not close on the meeting day, the teachers having voted to have a "Spring Visit" in lieu of the larger meeting.

Theme of this year's association session is to be "Peace—The Challenge of Education," with President Ivan Amerine to deliver the main address.

Speakers on the general program of the meeting will be Dr. Henry Hill, president of George Peabody college for teachers; Raymond Graham Swing, noted news analyst; and Dr. Bernard Bell, former dean of the Cathedral of Fond du Lac.

Three general sessions are to be held in the morning program, while departmental meetings ranging from kindergarten to high school curricula will follow in the afternoon.

OSU Marks 75th Year Of Founding

COLUMBUS, Oct. 14 — The nation's educational spotlight will be on Ohio State university Thursday and Friday as the school opens a two-day observance of its 75th anniversary.

Founded in the Fall of 1873, during the waning years of the post-Civil War boom, the university has swelled in importance and size to the point where its anniversary celebration will attract 18 college presidents.

Ceremonies begin at 2:30 p. m. Thursday with an academic parade through the campus to the huge men's gym.

There, Governor Thomas J. Herbert will greet the assembly and turn the platform over to President J. L. Morrill of the University of Minnesota for the initial address.

Events will end Friday evening at a banquet in downtown Columbus where the main address will be made by President Karl T. Compton of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Ashville Man Cut By Cow

Oscar Lower of Ashville Route 2, who was horned by a cow shortly after noon Wednesday, suffered a half-inch cut below the right cheekbone. He was treated and released at Berger hospital.

Emergency treatment was given D. W. Allen of 527 East Franklin street, who reportedly slipped on steps while working in a local feed mill. He was treated for a small head laceration at the hospital.

Pro-Red French Laborite Warns Of U.S. 'Trend'

PARIS, Oct. 14—A pro-Communist French labor rally was told today that American workers may cease to be "passive" if inflation continued to mount.

Louis Saillant, secretary-general of the World Labor Federation told a meeting of the Communist-dominated French Labor Confederation (CGT) that American economy is "again launched on the path of price inflation."

Saillant urged the CGT to call on France to demand a peaceful solution of world problems within the United Nations.

He called on all workers to form "a great world front to fight for peace.'

Rail traffic was normal throughout France, save for scattered strikes which had little effect on transportation.

In Eastern France, only the Mohon station was occupied by strikers, while stations at Brest and St. Brieuc in Western France were struck.

A sporadic back-to-work movement was reported from some mining areas. Mines in the Moselle region, and at Valenciennes reported that idle miners were returning.

10,000 Germans Out On Strike

FRANKFURT, Oct. 14 — Ten thousand German transport workers struck today in the Frankfurt area.

Labor leaders said the workers will remain on strike until demands for a retroactive pay boost are met.

Roadblocks were erected by strikers who checked vehicles for possible strike breakers.

The walkout is not expected to affect the airlift to Berlin. Only long haul trucking is involved.

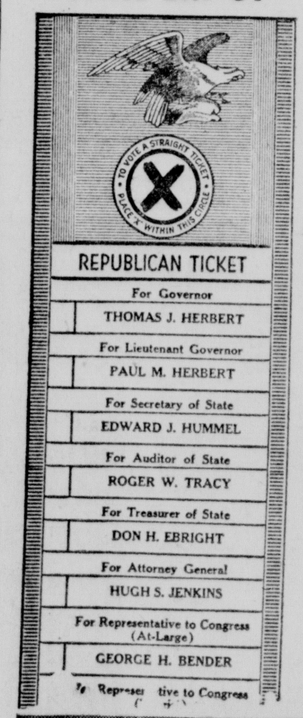
Governor Thomas J. Herbert

STATE BALLOT



Thomas J. Herbert, who became Ohio's governor two years ago, believes his job calls for serving the people by deeds — not by seeking cheap publicity. Consider his actual record and you will want him to serve again.

Every department under Tom Herbert's control was improved and activated every obligation of the state was met. Yet despite high prices on everything the state buys he asked for lowered taxes, not increased taxes. At his request, the legislature reduced several state taxes including the sales tax. World War II bonus payments are largely being financed through the treasury surplus, instead of by levying a special tax. Tom Herbert consistently saved tax money.

During his administration, state welfare institutions received aid long needed. Facilities for treating tuberculosis have been enlarged. Old age pensions, aid to mental hospitals and to the blind, have all been increased.

Teachers and public schools received an adequate appropriation for the first time in years.

Highways are being rapidly improved. Strip mining legislation has at last been enacted. Relinquishment of certain tax fields has given financial relief to distressed local governments. Tom Herbert gave the public more. Tom Herbert serves no favored class. He defends the rights of the entire people. When strikers defied constitutional law, he did his duty without political pussyfooting. At his command, state troops restored law and order.

By actions, not words, Governor Herbert has earned the right to re-election. Vote for him and for the other Republican candidates on the ballot with him.

DEWEY STILL FAR AHEAD

Barberpole Poll Shows Truman In Wee Gain

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14—If the average man is brave enough to tell his barber the truth, even with a razor poised over his unprotected throat, then President Truman is gaining slightly on Gov. Thomas Dewey—but the latter still is safely out in front.

That is the latest presidential election campaign progress report of Harry's barber poll. And, regardless of the part (if any) played by the poised razor, there would seem to be little reason to doubt the accuracy of the report.

For the slightly sensational striped-pole poll has been operating for more than 20 years—and it hasn't missed on a major election prediction in all that time!

Perhaps the main reason for the poll's success is that its originator and operator, one Harry Rich, is primarily not a professional feeler of the public pulse, but a barber. He bosses a sizeable tonsorial establishment in downtown Washington. This sampling of the people's views is strictly a sideline with him.

Hence, he doesn't take himself too seriously, or start jumping at conclusions when the race is halfway run. He just keeps the tabulations and issues periodic reports to the barber shop crowd—and anyone else who might be interested.

IN THIS regard, it might be noted that both Republican and Democratic national headquarters send scouts around surreptitiously to get the latest bulletin from Harry's barber poll!

Another reason why Barber Rich has not yet fallen by the wayside with other more renowned political prophets is that he pays comparatively little attention to what Washingtonians say—although many a high-ranking legislative and executive leader eases into his chairs daily for a once-over-lightly.

He gets most of his dope from fellow barbers across the country. In his spare time, he sends them hundreds of letters, telling them what questions to ask their customers. They ask the questions and send him the answers.

The latest tabulation for instance, included reports from thousands of questions asked in 13 scattered states. Roughly, its results racked up like this:

Truman still can take only three of the 13;

Dewey continues to hold the lead in nine;

The thirteenth (Massachusetts) now is a neck-and-neck race;

But, since the last poll progress report, Truman has sliced the Dewey lead in half a dozen states, showing sizeable gains in Rhode Island and Arizona particularly.

According to the haircut- and-shave (but no longer six bits) citizens, Wallace is completely out of the race. No one gives him even an outside chance.

IN SEVERAL states, a small proportion of those polled thought that Gov. J. Strom Thurmond still might win—largely on the theory that an electoral college deadlock might throw the decision into the House of Representatives.

Another interesting point turned up by the poll is that in several states, with heavy emphasis on California, the customers who plan to vote Republican claim they'll be voting for Warren, rather than Dewey.

Also, it was noted that in North and South Dakota a few diehards still were sticking to Stassen!

Truman showed additional gains in Indiana, Oregon and Maine, but definitely lost ground in Massachusetts where the tabulations stood at 48.1 percent for the President and 48.2 for Dewey. The remainder was parcelled out among the odd parties, so to speak.

Stubborn Vermont, which hasn't changed in the last three barber poll reports, still stood at 35 percent for Truman, 65 percent for Dewey—and one hundred percent for a reduction in the price of haircuts!

2 Women Spies Get Freedom

OTTAWA, Oct. 14—Two women convicted of serving the wartime Soviet spy ring in Canada have been released from prison at Kingston, Ont.

An official government announcement said today that Emma Woikin, former Canadian civil servant, and Kathleen Wilsher, former assistant in the office of the British high commissioner, were freed when their terms expired.

Both women had been named by Igor Gouzenko, Russian embassy cipher clerk who tipped off Canadian authorities to the spy ring in 1945.

Record Talks Collapse

NEW YORK, Oct. 14—A terse 23-word statement today collapsed strenuous efforts to remove the ban clamped on manufacture of new phonograph records last Jan. 1 by James C. Petrillo.

Petrillo, president of the AFL American Federation of Musicians, remained adamant after a week of conferences with seven leading disc companies.

Their joint statement announced:

"The AFM and the industry representatives regret that the current discussions have failed to produce an agreement. No further meetings have been scheduled.

Farm Fire Danger Again Noted

'Prevention Week' Past, Forgotten?

COLUMBUS, Oct. 14 — The truth of the old adage that "an ounce of prevention is better than a pound of cure" has no better exemplification than in the prevention of fires.

Preventable fires cause the loss of millions of dollars of property every year and take the lives of hundreds of persons, injuring countless others, and involving untold hardships and suffering. And the loss falls heaviest on the farms of the nation.

In calling attention to th eimportance the recent National Fire Prevention Week, W. E. Stuckey, extension farm safety specialist, pointed out today that although farmers make up only one-fifth of the nation's population, they constitute one-third of all persons killed by fire.

To be specific, last year 3,500 American farm folks were sacrificed to the fire demon, with a property loss than ran up to around $84,000,000. In Ohio, alone, at least $18,000,000 worth of farm property went up in smoke and several hundred persons were either burned to death or were injured because of fires.

FARM RESIDENTS face the greatest danger from fires because they do not have the organized fire protection available to city people. Then, too, fire hazards are numerous on farms because present-day mechanization requires that large stocks of inflammable liquids must be kept on hand, combustible materials, such as hay, straw, etc., must be stored in barns and other buildings, and many farm structures are not protected against lightning, the No. 1 farm fire hazard.

Other common causes of farm fires are spontaneous combustion, defective chimneys, carelessness in smoking and the misuse of electricity and appliances.

Stuckey emphasized the point that farm fire preventions is a profitable farm enterprise, that the easiest way to fight fire is to stop it from starting, by knowing the causes, removing the hazards and providing protection. And that applies not only during Fire Prevention Week, but throughout the year, he said.

NOT WANTING Democrats who presented President Truman with a "Dewey's goat" in Texas to get ahead of them, Republicans in New York present GOP vice presidential nominee Earl Warren with a donkey, intended to symbolize switch of votes. Scene is opening of Dewey-Warren citizens committee headquarters in New York. (International)

Filipinos Grab 6 Escapees

MANILA, Oct. 14—Four of six Japanese war prisoners who escaped from a U. S. Army stockade were turned over to American authorities today by Philippine constabularymen who recatured the fugitives.

The other two escaped prisoners also have been retaken and are believed to be in the custody of the police chief at Santa Maria in the Philippine province of Laguna.

The six prisoners made their getaway Sept. 27 from the American Army stockade at Manaluyong in Rizal province.

Teachers Set For State Meet

County Schools To Participate

Pickaway County schools will dismiss Oct. 29 so that teachers may attend the 77th annual session of the Central Ohio Teacher's Association in Dayton.

Circleville schools will not close on the meeting day, the teachers having voted to have a "Spring Visit" in lieu of the larger meeting.

Theme of this year's association session is to be "Peace—The Challenge of Education," with President Ivan Amerine to deliver the main address.

Speakers on the general program of the meeting will be Dr. Henry Hill, president of George Peabody college for teachers; Raymond Graham Swing, noted news analyst; and Dr. Bernard Bell, former dean of the Cathedral of Fond du Lac.

Three general sessions are to be held in the morning program, while departmental meetings ranging from kindergarten to high school curricula will follow in the afternoon.

WHILE DIPLOMATS IN PARIS STRUGGLE unceasingly to find a solution to the Berlin blockade, S/Sgt. Ralph Felling (right) "beat" the problem by using candy bars. He drove through the closely-guarded Soviet Zone and past barriers, according to dispatches from abroad, by using a combination of "psychology, fast talking and a few bars of candy." When his wife (above) and sons heard the story in their San Antonio, Tex., home, she said quietly to newspaper reporters and friends: "It sounds just like him." (International Soundphoto)

2 Choruses Due Here Next Week

A treat is in store for those interested in hearing choruses in a varied program of vocal selections. The opening night of the annual Pumpkin Show on the corner of Scioto and Main streets at 8 p. m. Wednesday will be heard 60 voices blended in harmony.

A three-star girls chorus and a male chorus from Columbus, composed of employes of the Ohio Fuel and Gas Co. will be on hand to entertain the crowd.

Ellis Snyder of Capital university, Columbus, is director of the groups.

OSU Marks 75th Year Of Founding

COLUMBUS, Oct. 14 — The nation's educational spotlight will be on Ohio State university Thursday and Friday as the school opens a two-day observance of its 75th anniversary.

Founded in the Fall of 1873, during the waning years of the post-Civil War boom, the university has swelled in importance and size to the point where its anniversary celebration will attract 18 college presidents.

Ceremonies begin at 2:30 p. m. Thursday with an academic parade through the campus to the huge men's gym.

There, Governor Thomas J. Herbert will greet the assembly and turn the platform over to President J. L. Morrill of the University of Minnesota for the initial address.

Events will end Friday evening at a banquet in downtown Columbus where the main address will be made by President Karl T. Compton of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Ashville Man Cut By Cow

Oscar Lower of Ashville Route 2, who was horned by a cow shortly after noon Wednesday, suffered a half-inch cut below the right cheekbone. He was treated and released at Berger hospital.

Emergency treatment was given D. W. Allen of 527 East Franklin street, who reportedly slipped on steps while working in a local feed mill. He was treated for a small head laceration at the hospital.

Pro-Red French Laborite Warns Of U.S. 'Trend'

PARIS, Oct. 14—A pro-Communist French labor rally was told today that American workers may cease to be "passive" if inflation continued to mount.

Louis Saillant, secretary-general of the World Labor Federation told a meeting of the Communist-dominated French Labor Confederation (CGT) that American economy is "again launched on the path of price inflation."

Saillant urged the CGT to call on France to demand a peaceful solution of world problems within the United Nations.

He called on all workers to form "a great world front to fight for peace.'

Rail traffic was normal throughout France, save for scattered strikes which had little effect on transportation.

In Eastern France, only the Mohon station was occupied by strikers, while stations at Brest and St. Brieuc in Western France were struck.

A sporadic back-to-work movement was reported from some mining areas. Mines in the Moselle region, and at Valenciennes reported that idle miners were returning.

10,000 Germans Out On Strike

FRANKFURT, Oct. 14 — Ten thousand German transport workers struck today in the Frankfurt area.

Labor leaders said the workers will remain on strike until demands for a retroactive pay boost are met.

Roadblocks were erected by strikers who checked vehicles for possible strike breakers.

The walkout is not expected to affect the airlift to Berlin. Only long haul trucking is involved.

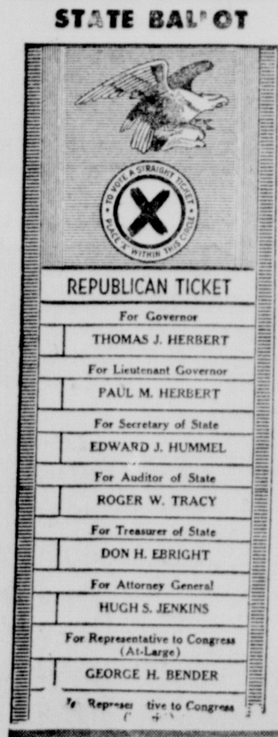
STATE BALLOT



Thomas J. Herbert, who became Ohio's governor two years ago, believes his job calls for serving the people by deeds — not by seeking cheap publicity. Consider his actual record and you will want him to serve again.

Every department under Tom Herbert's control was improved and activated every obligation of the state was met. Yet despite high prices on everything the state buys he asked for lowered taxes, not increased taxes. At his request the legislature reduced several state taxes including the sales tax. World War II bonus payments are largely being financed through the treasury surplus, instead of by levying a special tax. Tom Herbert consistently saved tax money.

During his administration, state welfare institutions received aid long needed. Facilities for treating tuberculosis have been enlarged. Old age pensions, aid to mental hospitals and to the blind, have all been increased.

Teachers and public schools received an adequate appropriation for the first time in years.

Highways are being rapidly improved. Strip mining legislation has at last been enacted. Relinquishment of certain tax fields has given financial relief to distressed local governments. Tom Herbert gave the public more. Tom Herbert serves no favored class. He defends the rights of the entire people. When strikers defied constitutional law, he did his duty without political pussyfooting. At his command, state troops restored law and order.

By actions, not words, Governor Herbert has earned the right to re-election. Vote for him and for the other Republican candidates on the ballot with him.

Farmers Get Blame For Prices

Ag Expert Says Claim Is False

The "rough" part about the present meat picture is that a great many city folk blame their farm relatives for dollar-a-pound meat, buyer's strikes and boycotts.

This is the opinion of A. B. Genung, former staff member of the Bureau of Agricultural Economies in the Department of Agriculture.

The thing they cannot understand, says Genung, is that the price situation is the way it is because the supply isn't large enough to satisfy the demand of all the people who want meat and have the hard cash to pay for it, even when steaks are $1 per pound.

He points out that farmers can do something about the meat shortage and can make money doing it, however. The farmer who has withstood the temptation of soaring prices for meat animals and still has his herd and flock intact is high in the driver's seat.

The liquidation of young and breeding stock is being checked on the farm and larger crops of pigs, calves and chickens already are in sight. The harvest of a record corn crop and other grains means the rebuilding of flocks and herds.

THE PUBLIC should understand, Genung says, that free markets, high meat prices and big, new grain crops already have started the cure for the meat shortage. However, the cure will take a little time.

Looking beyond this year, what is the meat prospect?

Genung says one can pretty safely say there will be substantially more pork by latter 1949 and likewise more chicken. There won't be much more beef before 1951 and as for lamb, it's anybody's guess.

It will take time to reverse the trend of liquidation in cattle. After the trend has been reversed, it will take still more time to get young animals to the stage of steaks and roasts.

HERE IS THE Columbus Moose Lodge marching band, an outfit which last August represented all Ohio Moose lodges at the organization's national convention in Chicago. Directed by Don Port, who was assigned to the Army's band training department during World War II, this band is to appear in the Miss Pumpkin Show parade Thursday evening of next week. Coming to Circleville with the band is the Columbus lodge's drum and bugle corps, the Moose drill team and the Moose majorettes.

The only object for sending the Chief Justice of the United States to Stalin could be that the President cannot go himself and has lost confidence in George Marshall, the secretary of state.

The only reason that the President can have for wanting to see Stalin or to send a special representative to him—such an important one—is either to issue an ultimatum or to appease Stalin.

In a word, the purpose can only be to bring the situation to a head before Election Day, at no matter what cost.

The Berlin negotiations were undoubtedly important in the President's campaign calculations. They were to produce some kind of climax.

On the other hand, suppose that Vinson's participation in this highly difficult and touchy question led to national disaster—what would that do to the Supreme Court of the United States? How low would the court sink in public estimation? It is the Supreme Court, not Mr. Truman's personal fortunes, that matters.

For some reason, Mr. Truman does not grasp the essentials of our form of government. Just as he denounces Congress until his words have ceased to be political but have become an attack on the institution of Congress, so his relations with the Supreme Court fail to maintain the aloofness, the non-political character of that institution. It is a pity that Chief Justice Vinson permitted his name to be mentioned in this connection.

The word "kodak" was coined by the inventor, George Eastman, for a trademark. He liked the letter "K" and tried out different combinations of letters beginning and ending with k until he came up with kodak.

Free Western Horse Show Set For Oct. 23

The Western Horse Show, which proved itself with many successes throughout Pickaway County in various fairs, homecomings and celebrations, will be a feature of next week's Pumpkin Show.

Concluding day of the four-day annual event has been set for the show in Ted Lewis park.

Both morning and afternoon Saturday events will include 17 special classes.

In the morning session only Pickaway County horses will be competing. Winners of events will be awarded trophies, cash and ribbons. The show is being sponsored by a 12-member committee. No admission charge will be made to either show.

Trial Opens For Pen Inmate

COLUMBUS, Oct. 14—A jury of eleven women and one man will hear the opening testimony Thursday in the first degree murder trial of an Ohio penitentiary prisoner charged with killing two guards.

Wednesday, the first day of the trial, was spent in selecting jurors to hear the case of the 34-year-old convict, John Thomas, in Franklin County criminal court.

The prisoner is charged with the fatal stabbing of Guards Walter W. Zimmer, 68, and Samuel P. Shesshir, 54, both of Columbus.

Thomas ran amuck in the pen last April 19 and, before the prison staff cornered him, stabbed the two men with a butcher knife.

Air Is Full Of Politics

NEW YORK, Oct. 14—Two presidential candidates are scheduled to make radio addresses tonight.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, GOP nominee, will speak at Kansas City from 9:30 to 10 p. m. EST, over CBS.

Henry A. Wallace, Progressive party aspirant, will talk from 8:30 to 8:45 p. m. EST, over ABC.

Harold L. Ickes, former secretary of the interior under the late President Roosevelt, will speak from Washington from 9 to 9:30 p. m. EST, over ABC, and Democratic vice presidential nominee Alben W. Barkley is scheduled to make a radio address from 10 to 10:30 over CBS from Enid, Okla.

The old game of "Button, button, who's got the button?" is being played off the Pacific Coast. . .only instead of buttons they're looking for sardines. Offhand you might think this isn't important to anyone but another sardine. However, that's as false as a lion's smile. For the past year fishermen have caught only about 25% of the sardines they netted during previous years. The schools are playing "hooky". . .and nobody knows where they've gone. So sardine packers are spending $95,000 to track down the finny fugitives. It's a small scale mystery. . .and there's something definitely fishy about it.

Farm Fire Danger Again Noted

'Prevention Week' Past, Forgotten?

COLUMBUS, Oct. 14 — The truth of the old adage that "an ounce of prevention is better than a pound of cure" has no better exemplification than in the prevention of fires.

Preventable fires cause the loss of millions of dollars of property every year and take the lives of hundreds of persons, injuring countless others, and involving untold hardships and suffering. And the loss falls heaviest on the farms of the nation.

In calling attention to th eimportance the recent National Fire Prevention Week, W. E. Stuckey, extension farm safety specialist, pointed out today that although farmers make up only one-fifth of the nation's population, they constitute one-third of all persons killed by fire.

To be specific, last year 3,500 American farm folks were sacrificed to the fire demon, with a property loss than ran up to around $84,000,000. In Ohio, alone, at least $18,000,000 worth of farm property went up in smoke and several hundred persons were either burned to death or were injured because of fires.

FARM RESIDENTS face the greatest danger from fires because they do not have the organized fire protection available to city people. Then, too, fire hazards are numerous on farms because present-day mechanization requires that large stocks of inflammable liquids must be kept on hand, combustible materials, such as hay, straw, etc., must be stored in barns and other buildings, and many farm structures are not protected against lightning, the No. 1 farm fire hazard.

Other common causes of farm fires are spontaneous combustion, defective chimneys, carelessness in smoking and the misuse of electricity and appliances.

Stuckey emphasized the point that farm fire preventions is a profitable farm enterprise, that the easiest way to fight fire is to stop it from starting, by knowing the causes, removing the hazards and providing protection. And that applies not only during Fire Prevention Week, but throughout the year, he said.

NOT WANTING Democrats who presented President Truman with a "Dewey's goat" in Texas to get ahead of them, Republicans in New York present GOP vice presidential nominee Earl Warren with a donkey, intended to symbolize switch of votes. Filipinos Grab 6 Escapees

MANILA, Oct. 14—Four of six Japanese war prisoners who escaped from a U. S. Army stockade were turned over to American authorities today by Philippine constabularymen who recatured the fugitives.

The other two escaped prisoners also have been retaken and are believed to be in the custody of the police chief at Santa Maria in the Philippine province of Laguna.

The six prisoners made their getaway Sept. 27 from the American Army stockade at Manaluyong in Rizal province.

Young Eyes Now Needing Protection

Proper Study Lighting Cited

COLUMBUS, Oct. 14—"For the sake of young eyesight, parents will be wise to check on the lighting at the study corner at home, now that the youngsters have returned to school, and the diningroom table in many households will be back in service for evening homework", Anne Biebricher, extension home furnishing specialist, Ohio State university, points out.

Few diningroom fixtures are of the shaded type with large enough bulbs to give good reading light.

Therefore, it is a good idea to move a study lamp to the table after the dishes are cleared off. This will make it a good place not only for studying but also for evening reading by grownups.

To protect young eyes, light for studying should be free from glare, harsh shadows and contrasts between darkness and bright light. A table study lamp should be tall enough and have a shade broad enough to spread a wide circle of light so that a child can sit up comfortably when reading.

LAMP SHADES should have a white lining to reflect all possible light and slanting sides which direct that light downward. Under these shades there should be a diffusing or reflecting bowl to prevent glare and soften the light.

For best reading conditions, rooms should have general lighting in addition to clear light on the work. This general light can be provided by ceiling fixtures or by enough lamps with diffusing bowls lighted to give well-balanced lighting.

Location of a lamp also is important for good light on lessons. For close work lamps should be close to the task and at one side. To avoid shadows on work when young scolars are writing, place a lamp at the left for those who are right-handed or to the right for the left-handers.

If the lamp is properly placed and the children sit near enough together, one lamp will give good light for several students.

Divorced Man Seeks Children

CLEVELAND, Oct. 14—A Willoughby accountant sought court action today to force a Lakewood man to turn over his two daughters.

The plaintiff, Eugene F. Hamilton, filed a habeas corpus action yesterday against Thomas Piteo, asking the return of Lynne Marie Hamilton, 9, and Leslie Jean Hamilton, 8.

Piteo has refused to return the children since the death Sept. 28 of his wife, Mrs. Betty Piteo, 28, mother of the two girls, who was divorced from Hamilton in 1944 and was given their custody.

Piteo has refused to give up the children on the grounds that his wife's will provided that he become their guardian.

Thurmond Due For Ohio Talk

CINCINNATI, Oct. 14 — South Carolina Gov. J. Strom Thurmond carried his States' Rights campaign into the midwest today with an address over a Cincinnati radio station.

The party's presidential nominee will speak at 7:15 p. m. (EST) and follow his broadcast with a speech at nearby Covington, Ky.

Thurmond accused President Truman of backing a civil rights program only because it is politically expedient. He asserted that the chief executive is for civil rights "only because it helps his campaign—not because he actually favors it."

Criminal Bureau Chief Resigns

COLUMBUS, Oct. 14 — State Welfare Director Charles L. Sherwood was looking today for a successor to the post of superintendent of the state bureau of criminal identification and investigation at London prison farm.

The resignation of Col. Ozni H. Cornwell, 55-year-old former head of the bureau, was announced late yesterday.

Cornwell, a veteran of both world wars, served as head of the state bureau since 1940. He is scheduled to return to Army service Saturday.

Gallaher Drug Store Starting 4th Year In New Location Here

Gallaher Drug store this week is celebrating the beginning of its fourth year of public service in its new location on the northwest corner of Court and Main streets.

The business has been in operation in Circleville for 16 years, and since the store was moved from what now is the G. C. Murphy annex, Karl Johnson has been manager of the establishment.

Three of the original employes, who were with the organization when it moved, still are with the firm. They are James Sampson, Hazel Crist and Mary Mancini.

"The new room has permitted expansion in all departments and has helped us maintain the drug store idea," Johnson declared.

All together, Gallaher's in Circleville employs more than 30 clerks and waitresses and offers a list of more than 10,000 separate items for sale.

During the average day, Johnson said, the fountain serves 500 persons under the management of Mrs. Juanita Phillips.

The store operates 14 hours a day, seven days a week with a complete line of drugs, tobaccos, cosmetics, candies and miscellaneous items.

Boston Mayor Pays Off Bet With Beans

CLEVELAND, Oct. 14—Refrigerators at Cleveland's Hotel Hollenden were filled today with nearly 100 pots of baked beans—mute testimony to Boston Mayor James M. Curley's high regard for the city's Braves.

Shortly before the recent world series, Mayor Curley bet Cleveland Mayor Thomas A. Burke the beans against a wooden Indian that the Braves would whip the Indians.

True to his word, Mayor Curley quickly dispatched the beans after the Indians polished off the Braves in six games.

Last night, when Burke and other friends and business associates were Tribe Prexy bill Veeck's guests at a dinner in the Hollenden, the mayor turned the beans over to his host.

SICK!
STOMACH AILMENTS, WEAK KIDNEYS, RHEUMATIC PAINS, ARTHRITIS, NEURITIS
and such complaints as Headaches, Nervousness, Acids Toxins, Bloating, Lack of Vitality, Energy, Poor Appetite, Underweight, Dizzy Spells.

Drugless Health!
REGARDLESS of how long you have been a sufferer, and how many medicines you have tried before, you can now hope for relief if you try GEO-MINERAL, the wonderful mineral aid. Feel and enjoy the results one week after you start taking it. GEO-MINERAL comes from the earth — Nature's laboratory. Contains NO alcohol, NO preservatives, NO oil. NO harmful drugs, NO dope — is NOT habit forming. Contains ONLY Nature's minerals, the oldest, most reliable remedy for rheumatism, arthritis, kidney and stomach ailments — highly recommended by the medical profession.
FOR THOUSANDS of years ever since Hipocrates was the father of medicine, minerals and other natural medicines were a reliable remedy for most of our common ailments. GEO-MINERAL will enrich your blood, help to make you strong, full of pep, life and energy. If you suffer from nutritional anemia, nervousness, lack of vitality and energy see what GEO-MINERAL will do for you.

Amazing Results
MEDICAL records show 65% of men and women over 35 suffer from nutritional mineral-iron anemia. When you feel nervous, dull, tired, lazy, have dizzy spells, no ambition to work or play, a poor appetite, when your eyes lack that bright spark, and your mind brilliance, when headaches get the best of you, and you feel old before your time, and life seems not worth living, with worry wearing you down—it may be simply lack of minerals in your blood. GEO-MINERAL is then what you need.
RHEUMATISM, arthritis are dreadful diseases. Acid coddition in the blood is often their cause. What could be the remedy? For thousands of years, minerals have been used to relieve the pain and suffering of these ills. People, on the advice of their doctors, go to mineral springs to find cure, or relief. The late President Roosevelt used to go to Warm Springs in Georgie. He was helped or would not have gone there twice a year.

Wonder Minerals
YEAR after year, people rush to mineral springs and spas, to drink and bathe in their miraculous water. We have all heard of the wondrous springs of Lourdes, France, and famous Thronion in ancient Greece where, according to legend, Hercules, the god of eternal strength and youth, drank its waters and bathed to be forever young.
GEO-MINERAL contains minerals you get at the world's best springs. Watch your elimination from your bowels a day or two after using it. The waste, black as the color of your shoes, will start to break away, and you will SEE it! Also examine your urine. You may see impurities — poisonous waste — coming out of your kidneys, relieving you. And then realize the priceless value of GEO-MINERAL.

Read What They Say!

"We have sold Geo-Mineral for the last six months and it has been one of the best selling drug items we have ever handled"—say Porter Bros., pharmacists of Concord, N. C. "Users report amazing results in many instances, and we personally believe Geo-Mineral is a good medicine for purposes as indicated, and recommend it to sufferers who have tried other medicines with little if any results. They may discover that Geo-Mineral is what they have probably been needing and looking for — we unhesitatingly recommend it."

100% Guaranteed!
WE URGE everyone to try GEO-MINERAL. Do not hesitate one moment. Go to your drug store now. Get one bottle. Use it one week. If you are not 100 per cent satisfied, we will refund your money.
REGARDLESS of how long you have been suffering, and how many medicines you have tried before, GEO-MINERAL may be the remedy you need!
TRY it today! It may do wonders for you—and be the best investment for your health. Make you feel, eat, sleep, work and enjoy life better.

Farmers Get Blame For Prices

Ag Expert Says Claim Is False

The "rough" part about the present meat picture is that a great many city folk blame their farm relatives for dollar-a-pound meat, buyer's strikes and boycotts.

This is the opinion of A. B. Genung, former staff member of the Bureau of Agricultural Economies in the Department of Agriculture.

The thing they cannot understand, says Genung, is that the price situation is the way it is because the supply isn't large enough to satisfy the demand of all the people who want meat and have the hard cash to pay for it, even when steaks are $1 per pound.

He points out that farmers can do something about the meat shortage and can make money doing it, however. The farmer who has withstood the temptation of soaring prices for meat animals and still has his herd and flock intact is high in the driver's seat.

The liquidation of young and breeding stock is being checked on the farm and larger crops of pigs, calves and chickens already are in sight. The harvest of a record corn crop and other grains means the rebuilding of flocks and herds.

THE PUBLIC should understand, Genung says, that free markets, high meat prices and big, new grain crops already have started the cure for the meat shortage. However, the cure will take a little time.

Looking beyond this year, what is the meat prospect?

Genung says one can pretty safely say there will be substantially more pork by latter 1949 and likewise more chicken. There won't be much more beef before 1951 and as for lamb, it's anybody's guess.

It will take time to reverse the trend of liquidation in cattle. After the trend has been reversed, it will take still more time to get young animals to the stage of steaks and roasts.

HERE IS THE Columbus Moose Lodge marching band, an outfit which last August represented all Ohio Moose lodges at the organization's national convention in Chicago. Directed by Don Port, who was assigned to the Army's band training department during World War II, this band is to appear in the Miss Pumpkin Show parade Thursday evening of next week. Coming to Circleville with the band is the Columbus lodge's drum and bugle corps, the Moose drill team and the Moose majorettes.

The only object for sending the Chief Justice of the United States to Stalin could be that the President cannot go himself and has lost confidence in George Marshall, the secretary of state.

The only reason that the President can have for wanting to see Stalin or to send a special representative to him—such an important one—is either to issue an ultimatum or to appease Stalin.

In a word, the purpose can only be to bring the situation to a head before Election Day, at no matter what cost.

The Berlin negotiations were undoubtedly important in the President's campaign calculations. They were to produce some kind of climax.

On the other hand, suppose that Vinson's participation in this highly difficult and touchy question led to national disaster—what would that do to the Supreme Court of the United States? How low would the court sink in public estimation? It is the Supreme Court, not Truman's personal fortunes, that matters.

For some reason, Mr. Truman does not grasp the essentials of our form of government. Just as he denounces Congress until his words have ceased to be political but have become an attack on the institution of Congress, so his relations with the Supreme Court fail to maintain the aloofness, the non-political character of that institution. It is a pity that Chief Justice Vinson permitted his name to be mentioned in this connection.

The word "kodak" was coined by the inventor, George Eastman, for a trademark. He liked the letter "K" and tried out different combinations of letters beginning and ending with k until he came up with kodak.

Free Western Horse Show Set For Oct. 23

The Western Horse Show, which proved itself with many successes throughout Pickaway County in various fairs, homecomings and celebrations, will be a feature of next week's Pumpkin Show.

Concluding day of the four-day annual event has been set for the show in Ted Lewis park.

Both morning and afternoon Saturday events will include 17 special classes.

In the morning session only Pickaway County horses will be competing. Winners of events will be awarded trophies, cash and ribbons. The show is being sponsored by a 12-member committee. No admission charge will be made to either show.

Trial Opens For Pen Inmate

COLUMBUS, Oct. 14—A jury of eleven women and one man will hear the opening testimony Thursday in the first degree murder trial of an Ohio penitentiary prisoner charged with killing two guards.

Wednesday, the first day of the trial, was spent in selecting jurors to hear the case of the 34-year-old convict, John Thomas, in Franklin County criminal court.

The prisoner is charged with the fatal stabbing of Guards Walter W. Zimmer, 68, and Samuel P. Shesshir, 54, both of Columbus.

Air Is Full Of Politics

NEW YORK, Oct. 14—Two presidential candidates are scheduled to make radio addresses tonight.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, GOP nominee, will speak at Kansas City from 9:30 to 10 p. m. EST, over CBS.

Henry A. Wallace, Progressive party aspirant, will talk from 8:30 to 8:45 p. m. EST, over ABC.

Harold L. Ickes, former secretary of the interior under the late President Roosevelt, will speak from Washington from 9 to 9:30 p. m. EST, over ABC, and Democratic vice presidential nominee Alben W. Barkley is scheduled to make a radio address from 10 to 10:30 over CBS from Enid, Okla.

The old game of "Button, button, who's got the button?" is being played off the Pacific Coast. . .only instead of buttons they're looking for sardines. Offhand you might think this isn't important to anyone but another sardine. However, that's as false as a lion's smile. For the past year fishermen have caught only about 25% of the sardines they netted during previous years. The schools are playing "hooky". . .and nobody knows where they've gone. So sardine packers are spending $95,000 to track down the finny fugitives. It's a small scale mystery. . .and there's something definitely fishy about it.

Burglars entered an actor's home in Hollywood and stole about everything except his scrapbook. That's about the most unflattering thing you can do to an actor. Scrapbooks reminds me of scrap heaps. B. F. Goodrich Silvertowns have these Tire Features
MOST WANTED BY MOST PEOPLE FOR WOMEN

Rides Like a Dream! Car owners long have praised the riding comfort of Silvertowns . . . among comparable tires, Silvertowns are the choice for comfort.

No Disturbing Road Hum! Scientific tread design ends annoying growl and road hum; keeps squeals on curves at minimum; reduces riding fatigue.
FOR MEN

Wider, Square Riding Tread! Broader "Road Level" tread rides square to the road; increases road contact; distributes load and wear; improves stopping.

Shrugs Off Sudden Blows! More and stronger cords in body ward off bruises; cushion road shocks; reduce blowout hazards.

Best Feature of All—Low Cost Mileage. The wider, tougher tread is a regular miser for wear—goes thousands of miles farther for lowest cost per mile.

Young Eyes Now Needing Protection

Proper Study Lighting Cited

COLUMBUS, Oct. 14—"For the sake of young eyesight, parents will be wise to check on the lighting at the study corner at home, now that the youngsters have returned to school, and the diningroom table in many households will be back in service for evening homework", Anne Biebricher, extension home furnishing specialist, Ohio State university, points out.

Few diningroom fixtures are of the shaded type with large enough bulbs to give good reading light.

Therefore, it is a good idea to move a study lamp to the table after the dishes are cleared off. This will make it a good place not only for studying but also for evening reading by grownups.

To protect young eyes, light for studying should be free from glare, harsh shadows and contrasts between darkness and bright light. A table study lamp should be tall enough and have a shade broad enough to spread a wide circle of light so that a child can sit up comfortably when reading.

LAMP SHADES should have a white lining to reflect all possible light and slanting sides which direct that light downward. Under these shades there should be a diffusing or reflecting bowl to prevent glare and soften the light.

For best reading conditions, rooms should have general lighting in addition to clear light on the work. This general light can be provided by ceiling fixtures or by enough lamps with diffusing bowls lighted to give well-balanced lighting.

Location of a lamp also is important for good light on lessons. For close work lamps should be close to the task and at one side. To avoid shadows on work when young scolars are writing, place a lamp at the left for those who are right-handed or to the right for the left-handers.

If the lamp is properly placed and the children sit near enough together, one lamp will give good light for several students.

Divorced Man Seeks Children

CLEVELAND, Oct. 14—A Willoughby accountant sought court action today to force a Lakewood man to turn over his two daughters.

The plaintiff, Eugene F. Hamilton, filed a habeas corpus action yesterday against Thomas Piteo, asking the return of Lynne Marie Hamilton, 9, and Leslie Jean Hamilton, 8.

Piteo has refused to return the children since the death Sept. 28 of his wife, Mrs. Betty Piteo, 28, mother of the two girls, who was divorced from Hamilton in 1944 and was given their custody.

Piteo has refused to give up the children on the grounds that his wife's will provided that he become their guardian.

Thurmond Due For Ohio Talk

CINCINNATI, Oct. 14 — South Carolina Gov. J. Strom Thurmond carried his States' Rights campaign into the midwest today with an address over a Cincinnati radio station.

The party's presidential nominee will speak at 7:15 p. m. (EST) and follow his broadcast with a speech at nearby Covington, Ky.

Thurmond accused President Truman of backing a civil rights program only because it is politically expedient. He asserted that the chief executive is for civil rights "only because it helps his campaign—not because he actually favors it."

Criminal Bureau Chief Resigns

COLUMBUS, Oct. 14 — State Welfare Director Charles L. Sherwood was looking today for a successor to the post of superintendent of the state bureau of criminal identification and investigation at London prison farm.

The resignation of Col. Ozni H. Cornwell, 55-year-old former head of the bureau, was announced late yesterday.

Cornwell, a veteran of both world wars, served as head of the state bureau since 1940. He is scheduled to return to Army service Saturday.

Gallaher Drug Store Starting 4th Year In New Location Here

Gallaher Drug store this week is celebrating the beginning of its fourth year of public service in its new location on the northwest corner of Court and Main streets.

The business has been in operation in Circleville for 16 years, and since the store was moved from what now is the G. C. Murphy annex, Karl Johnson has been manager of the establishment.

Three of the original employes, who were with the organization when it moved, still are with the firm. They are James Sampson, Hazel Crist and Mary Mancini.

"The new room has permitted expansion in all departments and has helped us maintain the drug store idea," Johnson declared.

All together, Gallaher's in Circleville employs more than 30 clerks and waitresses and offers a list of more than 10,000 separate items for sale.

During the average day, Johnson said, the fountain serves 500 persons under the management of Mrs. Juanita Phillips.

The store operates 14 hours a day, seven days a week with a complete line of drugs, tobaccos, cosmetics, candies and miscellaneous items.

Boston Mayor Pays Off Bet With Beans

CLEVELAND, Oct. 14—Refrigerators at Cleveland's Hotel Hollenden were filled today with nearly 100 pots of baked beans—mute testimony to Boston Mayor James M. Curley's high regard for the city's Braves.

Shortly before the recent world series, Mayor Curley bet Cleveland Mayor Thomas A. Burke the beans against a wooden Indian that the Braves would whip the Indians.

True to his word, Mayor Curley quickly dispatched the beans after the Indians polished off the Braves in six games.

Last night, when Burke and other friends and business associates were Tribe Prexy bill Veeck's guests at a dinner in the Hollenden, the mayor turned the beans over to his host.

SICK!
STOMACH AILMENTS, WEAK KIDNEYS, RHEUMATIC PAINS, ARTHRITIS, NEURITIS
and such complaints as Headaches, Nervousness, Acids Toxins, Bloating, Lack of Vitality, Energy, Poor Appetite, Underweight, Dizzy Spells.
Drugless Health!
REGARDLESS of how long you have been a sufferer, and how many medicines you have tried before, you can now hope for relief if you try GEO-MINERAL, the wonderful mineral aid. Feel and enjoy the results one week after you start taking it. GEO-MINERAL comes from the earth — Nature's laboratory. Contains NO alcohol, NO preservatives, NO oil. NO harmful drugs, NO dope — is NOT habit forming. Contains ONLY Nature's minerals, the oldest, most reliable remedy for rheumatism, arthritis, kidney and stomach ailments — highly recommended by the medical profession.
FOR THOUSANDS of years ever since Hipocrates was the father of medicine, minerals and other natural medicines were a reliable remedy for most of our common ailments. GEO-MINERAL will enrich your blood, help to make you strong, full of pep, life and energy. If you suffer from nutritional anemia, nervousness, lack of vitality and energy see what GEO-MINERAL will do for you.
Amazing Results
MEDICAL records show 65% of men and women over 35 suffer from nutritional mineral-iron anemia. When you feel nervous, dull, tired, lazy, have dizzy spells, no ambition to work or play, a poor appetite, when your eyes lack that bright spark, and your mind brilliance, when headaches get the best of you, and you feel old before your time, and life seems not worth living, with worry wearing you down—it may be simply lack of minerals in your blood. GEO-MINERAL is then what you need.
RHEUMATISM, arthritis are dreadful diseases. Acid coddition in the blood is often their cause. What could be the remedy? For thousands of years, minerals have been used to relieve the pain and suffering of these ills. People, on the advice of their doctors, go to mineral springs to find cure, or relief. The late President Roosevelt used to go to Warm Springs in Georgie. He was helped or would not have gone there twice a year.
Wonder Minerals
YEAR after year, people rush to mineral springs and spas, to drink and bathe in their miraculous water. We have all heard of the wondrous springs of Lourdes, France, and famous Thronion in ancient Greece where, according to legend, Hercules, the god of eternal strength and youth, drank its waters and bathed to be forever young.
GEO-MINERAL contains minerals you get at the world's best springs. Watch your elimination from your bowels a day or two after using it. The waste, black as the color of your shoes, will start to break away, and you will SEE it! Also examine your urine. You may see impurities — poisonous waste — coming out of your kidneys, relieving you. And then realize the priceless value of GEO-MINERAL.
Read What They Say!

"We have sold Geo-Mineral for the last six months and it has been one of the best selling drug items we have ever handled"—say Porter Bros., pharmacists of Concord, N. C. "Users report amazing results in many instances, and we personally believe Geo-Mineral is a good medicine for purposes as indicated, and recommend it to sufferers who have tried other medicines with little if any results. They may discover that Geo-Mineral is what they have probably been needing and looking for — we unhesitatingly recommend it."
100% Guaranteed!
WE URGE everyone to try GEO-MINERAL. Do not hesitate one moment. Go to your drug store now. Get one bottle. Use it one week. If you are not 100 per cent satisfied, we will refund your money.
REGARDLESS of how long you have been suffering, and how many medicines you have tried before, GEO-MINERAL may be the remedy you need!
TRY it today! It may do wonders for you—and be the best investment for your health. Make you feel, eat, sleep, work and enjoy life better.

Chips Down For School Boy Teams

Massillon Facing Tough Alliance

By International News Service

The chips are down in Ohio's high school football lottery.

Estimates of comparative strength may undergo a severe shaking up by the time the week-end's gridiron plums have become history.

Going down the line of the top-ranking contenders for the mythical state championship, probably none have a tougher assignment than Massillon, the current No. 1 eleven.

Coach Chuck Mather must get his Tigers "up" for the second major opponent in a row, Alliance. Both the Aviators and the Tigers have won four straight games, and Mel Knowlton, the Alliance mentor, is a former Massillon coach.

Canton McKinley and Toledo Scott clash in Canton in another battle of unbeaten teams. The game also will feature an individual duel between McKinley's John Colceri, who has scored 96 points to date, and Scott's little Porter King, who has 79.

TOLEDO Waite adds an intersectional sidelight to the schedule by entertaining Austin, Tex. The Texans, reciprocating last year's visit by Waite to the Lone Star State, will make the 2,300-mile trip by special train accompanied by their 140-piece cowboy band.

Waite, ranked third behind Massillon and McKinley in this week's INS poll of experts, has won four straight games this year.

Hamilton's potent Big Blue, discontented with its present fourth-place ranking, will have a worthy opponent in Cincinnati Hughes.

Middletown, tied once but undefeated in five games, invades Steubenville, where the Big Red will be on the rebound after last week's bitterly-contested loss to Massillon.

Ironton, which hasn't been extended in its three games so far, plays Ashland, Ky., high school.

The top battle in Cincinnati pits unbeaten Withrow against a Purcell eleven that handed Western Hills its first loss a week ago. In Columbus, West seeks to extend its two-year unbeaten string against a dangerous Central foe. Two undefeated parochial teams tangle in Akron, St. Vincents and St. Mary's.

Fremont expects little trouble registering its fifth in a row at Sandusky, and Martins Ferry steps out of the state to play Triadelphia, W. Va.

Navy Big Braid Bends, To Play In Chicago

CHICAGO, Oct. 14—You have to give the Chicago Stadium people credit. They lured a Navy team to the midwest, which is something nobody else ever did.

They also put the naval academy basketball outfit on their mid-Winter program of doubleheaders, not for one appointment but for two, which again is something new.

Before, the overlords at Annapolis were unwilling to play on the big-city doubleheader programs, supposedly on the grounds that the atmosphere wasn't collegiate enough.

The forthcoming stadium cage card, consisting of ten doubleheaders with Northwestern and De Paul nominally the host teams, is unique in other respects, too.

For one thing, this is the first time any arena has ever been enabled to present all nine Western Conference teams undr one roof during a single season.

Hodgen Winner Of Aurora Race

McKinley Kirk of Washington C. H. drove his Hodgen to victory in both sections of the $1,750 divided Grand Circuit 24 Class Pace last night at Aurora Downs, Ill.

The 5-year-old sidewheeler won handily over the 6-½ furlong and mile routes in registering his 17th and 18th triumph of the season in 31 starts.

Caramac and Floyd Scott finished second and third in both races. The times were 1:43 2-5 and 2:14.

TERRIBLE TED TO TIGERS?

Rumor Says Williams Due To Leave Boston Red Sox

NEW YORK, Oct. 14—Among the numerous rumors currently prevalent in baseball circles is one that Ted Williams is leaving the Boston Red Sox.

The most persistent report in this connection is that Williams will be traded to the Detroit Tigers for Pitcher Hal Newhouser, Third Baseman George Kell and one or two unnamed lesser players.

The Red Sox situation is a sort of jigsaw puzzle, which must be put together with some care to make things fit. Even then you can't be sure you have got it solved, but it does seem to indicate that Williams stands a fair chance of going elsewhere.

Detroit for a long time has been rumored as interested in the lanky leftfielder and leading hitter in the American League, and if there ever was a time when the Tigers could use a hitter of his type it is now.

DETROIT is one of the clubs which through slow decay has gone from the heights to a place among the also-rans, and one that needs quick rebuilding.

Boston would have a pennant contender again next season with some pitching. Without it, the Red Sox won't even come close to the pennant.

To all outward appearances Manager Joe McCarthy and Williams are bosom pals, who worked hand in hand to get the Red Sox down to the playoff with the Cleveland Indians.

But McCarthy is not the kind of manager who welcomes temperamental stars on the teams he leads, and, unless he changed, he probably would grab at a chance to get rid of Williams.

Up to now McCarthy has coasted along taking things more or less as they came, but he is assuming full command now and it may be that he personally is interested in exchanging Williams for some pitching strength.

If it is his idea he will make it stick, now that he apparently has definitely decided to manage the Red Sox again next season. He probably would have quit baseball for good if his club had won the pennant. He doesn't want to bow out leaving a loser behind.

Del Baker, one of Joe Cronin's holdover coaches, was replaced yesterday by Kiki Cuyler, a McCarthy supporter of long standing and other changes in keeping with McCarthy's ideas are likely.

WILLIAMS fits into all this in a peculiar way. There is a large portion of Boston fans who never will accept him no matter what he does. They are strictly anti-Williams and don't plan to change.

When Cronin was manager he accepted this as part of the job. He raised Williams from rookie to outstanding star.

He had a personal affection for and a pride in Williams. McCarthy feels none of this. He is a cold-blooded businessman. He probably would like to hear more cheers for a change.

Ohio College Grid Briefs

GRANVILLE, Oct. 14—Harry Bourdeau of Ashtabula, who scored two touchdowns for Denison's undefeated Big Red last week, will be elevated to a starting post at right half against Wooster Saturday. The Big Red seeks its 14th straight victory and fourth in a row this year.

TIFFIN, Oct. 14—Coach Paul Hoerneman put Heidelberg college's Student Princes through extensive defensive drills today in preparation for this week's game at Otterbein. Heidelberg regards the Cardinals as one of the chief obstacles to its bid for an undefeated season.

WESTERVILLE, Oct. 14—Otterbein, encouraged by its first victory of the season last Saturday over Indiana Central, learned today it must play this week's homecoming game against Heidelberg without the services of Fullback Dick Housum. The injured gridder's duties will accrue to substitute Bucky Powless.

AKRON, Oct. 14—Lack of depth and a demonstrated weakness in the center of the line were the chief problems today of Akron University Coach Bud Houghton. The Zippers, who have won one and lost two, face the University of Louisville here Saturday.

WILMINGTON, Oct. 14—Wilmington college, already assured of its best record in 20 years, will have the limited services of Red Hilgeman, 210-pound fullback, Saturday against Rio Grande. Hilgeman was out last week with a dislocated finger.

KENT, Oct. 14—Kent State's undefeated record faces its biggest threat to date Saturday night when the Golden Flashes meet Central Michigan at Mt. Pleasant, Mich. The Chippewas' two losses were to undefeated Bowling Green, 13-12, and Western Michigan, 7-0.

Chuck Dressen Last Of MacPhail Crew With Yanks

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 — Coach Charlie Dressen remained the sole survivor today of the Larry MacPhail regime of the baseball Yankees.

Manager Casey Stengel yesterday appointed former big-leaguer Jim Turner to a 1949 coaching staff replacing Red Corriden.

Corriden and Dressen gave up coaching jobs at Brooklyn in 1944 when MacPhail bought into the Yankee franchise. MacPhail also brought in as manager, Bucky Harris who recently resigned under pressure.

Dressen's status has not yet been determined. Reportedly the highest paid coach in the game at $20,000 per annum, Dressen still has another year to go on his contract.

Turner is no stranger to Stengel or to the Yankees. After 14 years in the minors, Turner joined the Stengel-managed Boston Braves as a 33-year-old "rookie" in 1937 and won 20 games.

The strong right-hander switched to relief work and soon afterward helped Cincinnati to win the 1940 pennant. He joined the Yankees in 1942 and remained as a hurler through 1945. Turner then joined the Yankee farm system as manager of the Beaumont team in the Texas League.

The Yankees transferred him to Portland of the Pacific Coast League where he had been the past two seasons.

Local Grid Outfit Set For Battle

Newcomerstown '11' May Be Surprise

Circleville high school's undefeated football team will travel 112 miles to Newcomerstown Friday to try for its fifth win in as many starts this season.

The local Tigers are expected to run into tough competition on this road trip, since the host aggregation will be trying for its first win in five starts, the complete opposite of the record sported by the locals.

While the Newcomerstown squad has failed to finish on top in any of its contests to date, the margin of defeat against some of Ohio's top-notch grid clans has been slight enough to give Circleville mentors worried moments.

Record of the Friday night host team to date includes losses to Lancaster BIS 6-2, Mansfield Madison 15-6, Uhrichsville 20-0 and Ohio School for the Deaf 18-12.

Head Circleville Coach Steve Brudzinski and Line Mentor Tom Bennett anticipated facing all the defensive tactics listed in the book at their Wednesday night touchup scrimmage.

A NEW SERIES of line plays was introduced to the Red and Black aggregation at the session, all formulated to combat the varied defensive measured expected to be employed by Newcomerstown Coach Bob McCracken.

Bennett said the locals looked as good in the Wednesday session as they have in any of their practices this year.

Probable Circleville lineup for the Friday night encounter is: J. Starkey or Mancini; LE; Redman, LT; Cupp or Mayberry, LG; Morgan, C; Hennis, RG; R. Starkey, RT; Smallwood, RE; McAlister, QB; Hill, LH; Sabine, RH; and Valentine, FB.

The Circleville footballers will leave the high school by Greyhound bus at 2 p. m. Friday, and are slated to meet the Newcomerstowners at 8 p. m. They are to return to Circleville following the game.

Hogan After Riviera Purse

GLENDALE, Cal., Oct. 14—Ben Hogan, usually a Winter winning fixture at Riviera Country Club, will tee off today in an attempt to boost his mounting golf wealth by capturing the $15,000 Glendale Open championship.

Nine months ago Hogan won the rich Los Angeles Open. Last June he captured the U. S. Open, both held at Riviera.

For the next four days Hogan will attempt to slash par off the regular 72 Oakmont layout. His aim is to better his record-scoring 275 at Riviera in winning the U. S. Open.

Brownie Quartet To Give Talks

CANTON, Oct. 14—Marion Motley, Otto Graham, Lou Groza and Horace Gillom—all members of the Cleveland Browns football squad, are scheduled to appear tonight at the weekly meeting of the Canton McKinley Adult Booster Club.

The four members of the All-America Conference champs are slated to deliver short addresss.

Reserve Team Out After 3rd Victory Tonight

Circleville reserve football team will play host to the Greenfield McClain subs Thursday night to try for their third win in four starts this season.

A change of gametime has moved the Thursday kickoff from 7:15 p. m. to about 7:45 p. m. No gate charge is to be made.

The local subs, a team composed primarily of freshmen, but with a few sophomores sprinkled about, has posted eight tallies in its three games to date, winning 26-6 over Canal Winchester, edging Washington C. H. 20-14 and taking a 19-7 defeat from Lancaster.

Probable Circleville starting lineup will include McClarren at LE; Cockrel at LT; Kerns at LG; Stout at C; Ford at RG; Coffland at RT; Johnson at RE; Rooney, QB; Raymond or Harris, LH; George or Sims, RH; and Sowers, FB.

Fifth Annual 'Youth Achievement' Barbecue Due Oct. 30

1,000 Youths Expected For Affair

Coliseum Site For Program

Fifth annual Pickaway County "youth achievement recognition" barbecue is to be held in Pickaway Fairgrounds' Coliseum Oct. 30.

This year's program promises to be one of the largest "youth achivement" barbecues ever held in the county, with nearly 1,000 youths expected to attend.

In addition to FFA and 4-H Club groups, which have held the limelight of the program exclusively for the past four years, county Boy and Girl Scouts have been invited to the function this year for the first time.

The annual event is sponsored by a team of 40 Circleville and Pickaway County business men who value the training and development county youngsters are given in the four organizations.

THE BEEF to be barbecued was purchased following the 4-H Club beef show at Pickaway County Fair. It was the Reserve Champion Beef Female, exhibited at the fair by Paul Teegardin of the Madison Live Wires 4-H Club.

Larry Kunkle, Ohio State university meat specialist, is to supervise preparation and serving of the barbecued beef.

Serving is to begin at 11:30 a. m. and is to continue until 1:45 p. m.

All contributors to the event, their families, FFA and 4-H Club members and their families, and all Boy and Girl Scout members and their families are invited to the barbecue.

Former Clerk To Head P&G

CINCINNATI, Oct. 14—A former clerk, now only 44 years old, today became president of the Proctor and Gamble Soap Co.

He is Neil H. McElroy, elected to the company's top executive office after Richard R. Deupree vacated the post to become chairman of the board.

McElroy joined the company as a clerk in 1935 following his graduation from Harvard. He was elected a director in 1943 and named assistant to the president in 1945.

Police Probe Double Slaying, Suicide Motive

CLEVELAND, Oct. 14—County authorities probed the contents of an unwitnessed will today in an attempt to determine the exact cause of a suburban Beachwood double-murder and suicide.

The will was drawn up Monday by Bovard B. Jacob, 37-year-old insurance broker, shortly before he shot and killed his wife, Eleanor, 34, and seven-year-old son, Jeffrey.

The bodies of the three were found late Wednesday in their quarters in an illegally converted barn in the suburb.

Cuyahoga County Coroner Samuel R. Gerber blamed emotional instability for Jacob's actions. He said all three had been dead at least 24 hours when their bodies were found.

The three bodies were discovered by police investigating a report from a mailman that he saw a warning note tacked on the door of the dwelling reading, "do not enter. Notify police."

DETROIT—A mobile farm workshop, tractor-powered, has been put on the market. It contains a drill press and assortment of high speed drills and a grinder for sharpening farm tools in the field.

Leaders Call For Unified Lutheran Church

FREMONT, Oct. 14—A unified Lutheran church in America by 1950 appeared a distinct possibility today as five major branches of the church prepared to begin merger negotiations.

The American Lutheran church, currently holding its biennial convention in Fremont, declared yesterday it was ready to open immediate negotiations with four other Lutheran branches.

Delegates to the convention also approved a resolution directing the church executive committee to confer with "interested bodies within the American Lutheran Conference."

Dr. E. C. Fendt, a leading theologian and dean of Capital university seminary, declared:

"I believe that by 1950 we will have rather complete plans for closer affiliation if not actual merger. It will depend very much on what the committee finds out in the next two years."

Chips Down For School Boy Teams

Massillon Facing Tough Alliance

By International News Service

The chips are down in Ohio's high school football lottery.

Estimates of comparative strength may undergo a severe shaking up by the time the week-end's gridiron plums have become history.

Going down the line of the top-ranking contenders for the mythical state championship, probably none have a tougher assignment than Massillon, the current No. 1 eleven.

Coach Chuck Mather must get his Tigers "up" for the second major opponent in a row, Alliance. Both the Aviators and the Tigers have won four straight games, and Mel Knowlton, the Alliance mentor, is a former Massillon coach.

Canton McKinley and Toledo Scott clash in Canton in another battle of unbeaten teams. The game also will feature an individual duel between McKinley's John Colceri, who has scored 96 points to date, and Scott's little Porter King, who has 79.

TOLEDO Waite adds an intersectional sidelight to the schedule by entertaining Austin, Tex. The Texans, reciprocating last year's visit by Waite to the Lone Star State, will make the 2,300-mile trip by special train accompanied by their 140-piece cowboy band.

Waite, ranked third behind Massillon and McKinley in this week's INS poll of experts, has won four straight games this year.

Hamilton's potent Big Blue, discontented with its present fourth-place ranking, will have a worthy opponent in Cincinnati Hughes.

Middletown, tied once but undefeated in five games, invades Steubenville, where the Big Red will be on the rebound after last week's bitterly-contested loss to Massillon.

The Stubers will be looking at one of the state's finest leather-luggers in the person of Halfback Babe Calhoun of the Middies.

Ironton, which hasn't been extended in its three games so far, plays Ashland, Ky., high school.

The top battle in Cincinnati pits unbeaten Withrow against a Purcell eleven that handed Western Hills its first loss a week ago. In Columbus, West seeks to extend its two-year unbeaten string against a dangerous Central foe. Two undefeated parochial teams tangle in Akron, St. Vincents and St. Mary's.

Fremont expects little trouble registering its fifth in a row at Sandusky, and Martins Ferry steps out of the state to play Triadelphia, W. Va.

Navy Big Braid Bends, To Play In Chicago

CHICAGO, Oct. 14—You have to give the Chicago Stadium people credit. They lured a Navy team to the midwest, which is something nobody else ever did.

They also put the naval academy basketball outfit on their mid-Winter program of doubleheaders, not for one appointment but for two, which again is something new.

Before, the overlords at Annapolis were unwilling to play on the big-city doubleheader programs, supposedly on the grounds that the atmosphere wasn't collegiate enough.

But collegiate atmosphere or no collegiate atmosphere, Navy is one of the prime lures on the stadium program for 1948-49, playing Northwestern Dec. 18 and Notre Dame four nights later.

The forthcoming stadium cage card, consisting of ten doubleheaders with Northwestern and De Paul nominally the host teams, is unique in other respects, too.

For one thing, this is the first time any arena has ever been enabled to present all nine Western Conference teams undr one roof during a single season.

Hodgen Winner Of Aurora Race

McKinley Kirk of Washington C. H. drove his Hodgen to victory in both sections of the $1,750 divided Grand Circuit 24 Class Pace last night at Aurora Downs, Ill.

The 5-year-old sidewheeler won handily over the 6-½ furlong and mile routes in registering his 17th and 18th triumph of the season in 31 starts.

Caramac and Floyd Scott finished second and third in both races. The times were 1:43 2-5 and 2:14.

TERRIBLE TED TO TIGERS?

Rumor Says Williams Due To Leave Boston Red Sox

NEW YORK, Oct. 14—Among the numerous rumors currently prevalent in baseball circles is one that Ted Williams is leaving the Boston Red Sox.

The most persistent report in this connection is that Williams will be traded to the Detroit Tigers for Pitcher Hal Newhouser, Third Baseman George Kell and one or two unnamed lesser players.

The Red Sox situation is a sort of jigsaw puzzle, which must be put together with some care to make things fit. Even then you can't be sure you have got it solved, but it does seem to indicate that Williams stands a fair chance of going elsewhere.

Detroit for a long time has been rumored as interested in the lanky leftfielder and leading hitter in the American League, and if there ever was a time when the Tigers could use a hitter of his type it is now.

DETROIT is one of the clubs which through slow decay has gone from the heights to a place among the also-rans, and one that needs quick rebuilding.

Boston would have a pennant contender again next season with some pitching. Without it, the Red Sox won't even come close to the pennant.

To all outward appearances Manager Joe McCarthy and Williams are bosom pals, who worked hand in hand to get the Red Sox down to the playoff with the Cleveland Indians.

But McCarthy is not the kind of manager who welcomes temperamental stars on the teams he leads, and, unless he changed, he probably would grab at a chance to get rid of Williams.

Up to now McCarthy has coasted along taking things more or less as they came, but he is assuming full command now and it may be that he personally is interested in exchanging Williams for some pitching strength.

If it is his idea he will make it stick, now that he apparently has definitely decided to manage the Red Sox again next season. He probably would have quit baseball for good if his club had won the pennant. He doesn't want to bow out leaving a loser behind.

Del Baker, one of Joe Cronin's holdover coaches, was replaced yesterday by Kiki Cuyler, a McCarthy supporter of long standing and other changes in keeping with McCarthy's ideas are likely.

WILLIAMS fits into all this in a peculiar way. There is a large portion of Boston fans who never will accept him no matter what he does. They are strictly anti-Williams and don't plan to change.

When Cronin was manager he accepted this as part of the job. He raised Williams from rookie to outstanding star.

He had a personal affection for and a pride in Williams. McCarthy feels none of this. He is a cold-blooded businessman. He probably would like to hear more cheers for a change.

Ohio College Grid Briefs

GRANVILLE, Oct. 14—Harry Bourdeau of Ashtabula, who scored two touchdowns for Denison's undefeated Big Red last week, will be elevated to a starting post at right half against Wooster Saturday. The Big Red seeks its 14th straight victory and fourth in a row this year.

TIFFIN, Oct. 14—Coach Paul Hoerneman put Heidelberg college's Student Princes through extensive defensive drills today in preparation for this week's game at Otterbein. Heidelberg regards the Cardinals as one of the chief obstacles to its bid for an undefeated season.

WESTERVILLE, Oct. 14—Otterbein, encouraged by its first victory of the season last Saturday over Indiana Central, learned today it must play this week's homecoming game against Heidelberg without the services of Fullback Dick Housum. The injured gridder's duties will accrue to substitute Bucky Powless.

AKRON, Oct. 14—Lack of depth and a demonstrated weakness in the center of the line were the chief problems today of Akron University Coach Bud Houghton. The Zippers, who have won one and lost two, face the University of Louisville here Saturday.

WILMINGTON, Oct. 14—Wilmington college, already assured of its best record in 20 years, will have the limited services of Red Hilgeman, 210-pound fullback, Saturday against Rio Grande. Hilgeman was out last week with a dislocated finger.

KENT, Oct. 14—Kent State's undefeated record faces its biggest threat to date Saturday night when the Golden Flashes meet Central Michigan at Mt. Pleasant, Mich. The Chippewas' two losses were to undefeated Bowling Green, 13-12, and Western Michigan, 7-0.

Chuck Dressen Last Of MacPhail Crew With Yanks

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 — Coach Charlie Dressen remained the sole survivor today of the Larry MacPhail regime of the baseball Yankees.

Corriden and Dressen gave up coaching jobs at Brooklyn in 1944 when MacPhail bought into the Yankee franchise. MacPhail also brought in as manager, Bucky Harris who recently resigned under pressure.

Dressen's status has not yet been determined. Reportedly the highest paid coach in the game at $20,000 per annum, Dressen still has another year to go on his contract.

Turner is no stranger to Stengel or to the Yankees. After 14 years in the minors, Turner joined the Stengel-managed Boston Braves as a 33-year-old "rookie" in 1937 and won 20 games.

The strong right-hander switched to relief work and soon afterward helped Cincinnati to win the 1940 pennant. He joined the Yankees in 1942 and remained as a hurler through 1945. Turner then joined the Yankee farm system as manager of the Beaumont team in the Texas League.

The Yankees transferred him to Portland of the Pacific Coast League where he had been the past two seasons.

Local Grid Outfit Set For Battle

Newcomerstown '11' May Be Surprise

Circleville high school's undefeated football team will travel 112 miles to Newcomerstown Friday to try for its fifth win in as many starts this season.

The local Tigers are expected to run into tough competition on this road trip, since the host aggregation will be trying for its first win in five starts, the complete opposite of the record sported by the locals.

While the Newcomerstown squad has failed to finish on top in any of its contests to date, the margin of defeat against some of Ohio's top-notch grid clans has been slight enough to give Circleville mentors worried moments.

Record of the Friday night host team to date includes losses to Lancaster BIS 6-2, Mansfield Madison 15-6, Uhrichsville 20-0 and Ohio School for the Deaf 18-12.

Head Circleville Coach Steve Brudzinski and Line Mentor Tom Bennett anticipated facing all the defensive tactics listed in the book at their Wednesday night touchup scrimmage.

A NEW SERIES of line plays was introduced to the Red and Black aggregation at the session, all formulated to combat the varied defensive measured expected to be employed by Newcomerstown Coach Bob McCracken.

Bennett said the locals looked as good in the Wednesday session as they have in any of their practices this year.

Probable Circleville lineup for the Friday night encounter is: J. Starkey or Mancini; LE; Redman, LT; Cupp or Mayberry, LG; Morgan, C; Hennis, RG; R. Starkey, RT; Smallwood, RE; McAlister, QB; Hill, LH; Sabine, RH; and Valentine, FB.

The Circleville footballers will leave the high school by Greyhound bus at 2 p. m. Friday, and are slated to meet the Newcomerstowners at 8 p. m. They are to return to Circleville following the game.

Hogan After Riviera Purse

GLENDALE, Cal., Oct. 14—Ben Hogan, usually a Winter winning fixture at Riviera Country Club, will tee off today in an attempt to boost his mounting golf wealth by capturing the $15,000 Glendale Open championship.

Nine months ago Hogan won the rich Los Angeles Open. Last June he captured the U. S. Open, both held at Riviera.

For the next four days Hogan will attempt to slash par off the regular 72 Oakmont layout. His aim is to better his record-scoring 275 at Riviera in winning the U. S. Open.

Brownie Quartet To Give Talks

CANTON, Oct. 14—Marion Motley, Otto Graham, Lou Groza and Horace Gillom—all members of the Cleveland Browns football squad, are scheduled to appear tonight at the weekly meeting of the Canton McKinley Adult Booster Club.

The four members of the All-America Conference champs are slated to deliver short addresss.

Reserve Team Out After 3rd Victory Tonight

Circleville reserve football team will play host to the Greenfield McClain subs Thursday night to try for their third win in four starts this season.

A change of gametime has moved the Thursday kickoff from 7:15 p. m. to about 7:45 p. m. No gate charge is to be made.

The local subs, a team composed primarily of freshmen, but with a few sophomores sprinkled about, has posted eight tallies in its three games to date, winning 26-6 over Canal Winchester, edging Washington C. H. 20-14 and taking a 19-7 defeat from Lancaster.

Probable Circleville starting lineup will include McClarren at LE; Cockrel at LT; Kerns at LG; Stout at C; Ford at RG; Coffland at RT; Johnson at RE; Rooney, QB; Raymond or Harris, LH; George or Sims, RH; and Sowers, FB.

Fifth Annual 'Youth Achievement' Barbecue Due Oct. 30

1,000 Youths Expected For Affair

Coliseum Site For Program

Fifth annual Pickaway County "youth achievement recognition" barbecue is to be held in Pickaway Fairgrounds' Coliseum Oct. 30.

This year's program promises to be one of the largest "youth achivement" barbecues ever held in the county, with nearly 1,000 youths expected to attend.

In addition to FFA and 4-H Club groups, which have held the limelight of the program exclusively for the past four years, county Boy and Girl Scouts have been invited to the function this year for the first time.

The annual event is sponsored by a team of 40 Circleville and Pickaway County business men who value the training and development county youngsters are given in the four organizations.

THE BEEF to be barbecued was purchased following the 4-H Club beef show at Pickaway County Fair. It was the Reserve Champion Beef Female, exhibited at the fair by Paul Teegardin of the Madison Live Wires 4-H Club.

Larry Kunkle, Ohio State university meat specialist, is to supervise preparation and serving of the barbecued beef.

Serving is to begin at 11:30 a. m. and is to continue until 1:45 p. m.

All contributors to the event, their families, FFA and 4-H Club members and their families, and all Boy and Girl Scout members and their families are invited to the barbecue.

Police Probe Double Slaying, Suicide Motive

CLEVELAND, Oct. 14—County authorities probed the contents of an unwitnessed will today in an attempt to determine the exact cause of a suburban Beachwood double-murder and suicide.

The will was drawn up Monday by Bovard B. Jacob, 37-year-old insurance broker, shortly before he shot and killed his wife, Eleanor, 34, and seven-year-old son, Jeffrey.

The bodies of the three were found late Wednesday in their quarters in an illegally converted barn in the suburb.

Cuyahoga County Coroner Samuel R. Gerber blamed emotional instability for Jacob's actions. He said all three had been dead at least 24 hours when their bodies were found.

The three bodies were discovered by police investigating a report from a mailman that he saw a warning note tacked on the door of the dwelling reading, "do not enter. Notify police."

Leaders Call For Unified Lutheran Church

FREMONT, Oct. 14—A unified Lutheran church in America by 1950 appeared a distinct possibility today as five major branches of the church prepared to begin merger negotiations.

The American Lutheran church, currently holding its biennial convention in Fremont, declared yesterday it was ready to open immediate negotiations with four other Lutheran branches.

Delegates to the convention also approved a resolution directing the church executive committee to confer with "interested bodies within the American Lutheran Conference."

Dr. E. C. Fendt, a leading theolegian and dean of Capital university seminary, declared:

"I believe that by 1950 we will have rather complete plans for closer affiliation if not actual merger. It will depend very much on what the committee finds out in the next two years."
